City's Traffic Picture Due To Brighten Soon

Boals Predicts Motorists Will Find Fewer Tangles In Downtown Area Before Winter's Over.

By JOHN MINE

Mansfield motorists had something to be thankful for today.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals yesterday predicted an improvement in the city's tangled traffic situation which is wearing drivers' patience thin.

The commissioner cited four obstacles which are snarling downtown traffic and said he believes they'll be eliminated or improved "by next spring."

But he's not very hopeful of finding a solution to the parking problem very soon. The city just needs more parking room, and that's not in the offing, he said. The bottleneck of narrow streets is another that won't be remedied immediately, he explained.

* * *

Lists Obstacles.

Asked for comment on growing complaints concerning the city's tangled traffic, Boals listed these major reasons for the trouble:

1. Numerous buildings are under construction, tying up much-needed parking space.

2. With production on the increase, truck deliveries of formerly scarce items are being made on an all-hour basis, instead of during the slow traffic hours as before the war.

3. Numerous old cars still on the road stall, break down or otherwise help slow or block traffic.

4. The police traffic squad has a number of ex-servicemen who are on vacation following their return to the force, resulting in less rigid traffic enforcement.

Three of these traffic "headaches" should be ended by spring, Boals said, with the shortage of patrolmen being eliminated almost immediately.

No vacations will be authorized this year after Dec. 5, he said, so that a full force will be available to handle Christmas rush traffic.

* * *

Hurry To Get Vacations.

Under a repealed ordinance, ex-servicemen were denied vacations. Since its recent repeal, the men are attempting to get their vacations in before the Dec. 5 deadline, he said.

All of these factors contributing to the traffic situation reflect the city's swing back to normal, Boals said.

Citing the trucking situation as one of the most serious problems, Boals said that it comes about because merchants must take supplies when they can get them and they must be delivered at any hour.

Before the war, he said, there was an agreement between the police and trucking companies to make deliveries during the hours of lighter traffic. That rule can't be enforced now because if a merchant doesn't take the goods when he can get them he doesn't get them at all, the commissioner explained.

Boals pointed out that much of the new construction should be completed by spring, releasing some 50 parking spaces downtown and that a proposed, privately-owned parking lot also will help ease the car space scarcity.

* * *

New Cars Coming.

In addition, he said, there should be fewer old cars on the road by spring, further helping to untangle the traffic knot.

55 PROPERTIES ORDERED SOLD

County Seeks $5,810 In First Big-Scale Tax Clean-up In Nine Years.

Sale of 55 parcels of Richland county property for delinquent taxes was ordered yesterday in common pleas court in the first large-scale clean-up of back tax accounts in the county since 1937.

Taxes on some of the properties involved in the actions have been unpaid for 14 years, court attaches said.

The court ordered the sales after Prosecutor Theodore Lutz filed foreclosure suits in an effort to collect a total of $5,810.86 in delinquent taxes. The parcels have a tax valuation totaling about $6500. There are no buildings on them.

While the court has ordered the properties sold, the actual public auction of them by the sheriff is not expected until the middle of January or later because of the necessity for legal advertising, the prosecutor's office said.

Most of the parcels are in Mansfield, Shelby or Madison township. Many of the properties are listed in the ownership of persons now dead. Charges against the parcels range from $9.14 to $755.51. According to the court's journal entries, they may be sold for no less than the total of delinquent taxes, special assessments, interest charges and court costs levied against them.

NEAR FREEDOM, FACES NEW TERM

A former Mansfield reformatory inmate who apparently had forsaken legal formalities in his fight for freedom by fleeing from custody, was told yesterday by Ohio's highest court that it would consider an appal which technically had freed him from imprisonment.

Donald W. Burson, one of four reformatory inmates who escaped from the Grafton honor camp last week and was captured little more than 24 hours later, now faces charges of armed robbery.

But the state supreme court, which officially doesn't read the newspapers, ruled that it would consider an appal from Richland county appllate court decision freeing Burson from the reformatory.

While the court was considering Burson's case, the 22-year-old youth, with three other inmates, fled the honor camp and with a 17-year-old girl companion allegedly stole two automobiles and abducted and robbed three men.

The quintet were captured last Thursday in Millersburg, and the four youths were indicted in Lancaster Saturday on armed robbery charges. The men also were charged with auto theft.

The other youth involved in the escapade were James L. Vendor, 16, of Canton; Leland B. Earlenbaugh, 26, of Akron, and Robert Miller, 19, and Sue Ellen Smith, 17, both of Cleveland.

Elliott Roosevelt Leaves For Moscow

LONDON —(AP)— Moscow radio said last night Elliott Roosevelt and his wife, Faye Emerson, left for Moscow yesterday after a four-day stay in Leningrad.

"Before his departure Mr. Roosevelt was received by the chairman of the executive committee of the Leningrad city Soviet," the broadcat added.

'Recognize Your Blessings,' Pastors Urge Mansfielders at Union Church Services

By NORMAN DRESSER

Pre-Thanksgiving church services last night stressed the abundance of blessings in America as Mansfield prepared to observe an old-fashioned holiday highlighted by religious rites and family reunions today.

In interdenominational services held at several Mansfield churches, ministers called on churchgoers to serve humanity and count "God's blessings."

With the weatherman's promise of a clear, crisp day, Mansfielders were expected to celebrate the holiday with a variety of activities, including church-going, motoring and, of course, the inevitable turkey with all the trimmings.

Thousands of the city's residents attended special services last night. At the first Christian church, a congregation composed of members of the First Methodist, First Congregational, First Presbyterian, United Presbyterian and First Christian heard Rev. Charles Stoneburner, pastor of the First Methodist church, speak on "Where Men In God Meet."

Want To Sing Praise.

"All of us come to the same God," he said as he pointed out the essential "sameness" of Protestantism. "When men and God meet together, men want to sing praises."

Rev. Stoneburner declared that Thanksgiving means "forgiveness," and that God moves "not only as a creator but as a redeemer."

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, called on men to "live a life that is a credit to God" when he spoke at a joint service of the Park Avenue Baptist and St. Matthew congregations at the Central Methodist church.

"We must alleviate pain and suffering to humanity and be real brothers to each other," he said. "We must live obediently and minister to others."

Dr. Garnes Speaks.

Dr. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, spoke at the 19th annual Thanksgiving union service of St. Luke's and St. Paul Lutheran church, held at St. Paul's.

While calling for thanks to God for the blessings of His "unspeakable gift," Dr. Garnes said there has been "no real peace for 10,000 years, and until men take the counsel of God to the peace table, peace will not be with us."

Among the traditional Thanksgiving day services held this morning were rites at the Grace Episcopal, First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Mt Calvary Baptist churches.

Enjoy Long Holiday.

Thousands of Mansfield school children were enjoying a holiday and were anticipating a "long week-end" tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

Most industries, business houses and public offices will be closed for the day, but breadwinners will be back on the job tomorrow.

Mansfield housewives had little difficulty in securing turkeys or other fowl for the holiday dinner but they found prices even higher than last year.

But mothers and wives found happiness that their loved ones once more were at their side, and recalled the long war years when at times the holiday seemed empty.

COX PROPOSES TVA FOR COAL

DAYTON—(AP)—Former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920, said yesterday that congress should enact legislation enabling the nation's coal industry to be "organized and operated under an authority in spirit comparable to" the Tennessee Valley authority.

"We have allowed control of this prime necessity (coal) to be placed so carelessly that at the behest of one man, the industry is in collapse," Cox said in a statement. "This situation must be taken in hand firmly as a whole."

Stating that miners "have been left to live in squalor, not knowing how to live themselves or how the rest of the country lives," Cox said, "the miners believe, with some justification, that John L. Lewis has been their only friend.

"In my judgment there is one clear answer. The mining industry and the people employed in it must be humanized. To that end the industry must be organized and operated under an authority in spirit comparable to that which is lifting the Tennessee valley to new heights of happiness, efficiency and prosperity."

PRICE OF GASOLINE GOES UP HALF-CENT

Mansfielders and other Ohio motorists will pay a half-cent a gallon more for their gasoline today at Standard Oil stations, it was announced last night.

Price of the company's standard gas was boosted to 19½ cents a gallon today while the premium grade fuel will cost 21½ cents.

The company said increased cost of crude oil was responsible for the price boost.

Boston Newsboys' Pennies Buy Turkey For President

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President and Mr. Truman and a few friends will feast on a Thanksgiving turkey sent by Boston newsboys who contributed pennies and nickels to buy the fowl.

The bird, 18½ pounds, was the first of four received by the president. The other three will go into cold storage to be eaten later, Mrs. Mary E. Sharpe, White House housekeeper, said. She gave the Thanksgiving day menu as follows:

Celery and olives
Clear bouillon
Roast turkey with sage and bread dressing.
Giblet gravy
Candied sweet potatoes
Buttered peas
Cauliflower au gratin
Orange and watercress salad with French dressing
Pumpkin pie with cheese
Candied fruits and nuts
Coffee

The president and his wife and their few guests will sit down to dinner at 2 p. m. in the private family dining room.

The Trumans didn't know whether their only child, Margaret, would be home for Thanksgiving. The 22-year-old girl, who has ambitions for a singing career, has been in New York studying.

President Truman has to watch his waistline, and Mrs. Sharpe said she has instructions to hold down on fattening foods. But for Thanksgiving the president is going off the diet reservation.

Outside of watching calories, preparing menus for the presidential table is simple, Mrs. Sharpe said. The Trumans are easy to please—they "really eat everything," she said.

Good News, Milady; Fur Prices Down

NEW YORK—(AP)—Retail fur coat prices are tending downward all over the country.

The slump began in mid-September when consumers displayed a lack of interest in expensive furs at the prevailing high prices, one industry spokesman said yesterday.

He estimated the cut in retail prices in general at one-third of the original price.

MORE OF CITY'S LIGHTS GO OUT

Mansfield's downtown area was in semi-darkness last night as every fifth white-way light was turned out to conserve fuel in accordance with Mayor Roy W. Vaughn's order.

The lights went out at 10:39 p. m., nine minutes late, adding to the gloom brought about three days ago when electric signs, theater marquees, and most store windows were darkened.

In Columbus, however, the Associated Press reported that Mayor Rhodes remained adamant in his decision to keep city street lights burning as a crime deterrent, saying:

"The street lights of the city of Columbus will continue to burn."

About 230 of Mansfield's street lights were turned off in a city move to conserve coal. Some 100 other white-way lamps burned through the night.

Mayor Vaughn said that the earlier shut-off hour will help save power while the 100 "stay-on" lights will be sufficient to maintain the safety of the city during the coal crisis.

IDEAL WEATHER SEEN FOR HOLIDAY

Bright and snappy weather was in prospect for the holiday today.

All of Ohio and most of the middlewest will get the same kind of ideal weather, the forecasters said.

The mercury was expected to drop below freezing this morning, but indications were that it wouldn't be cold enough to keep anybody away from grandma's house if there's a turkey dinner there.

GIRL MISSING

Harold Booze, Mansfield, R. D. 2, reported to police that his 17-year-old daughter, Virginia, left home early yesterday and had not returned by late last night. He said she left a note saying that she was "going away" and "not to worry."

Lewis Rebuked For Refusing To Delay Strike

'To Delay Action 10 Days Would Not Have Injured Union,' Says Judge; Rules Friday On Dismissal Plea.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The first day of John L. Lewis' historic contempt of court trial ended today with Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough rebuking Lewis for not flagging down the nation-wide soft coal strike pending a decision on the merits of the controversy.

With Lewis' lawyers contending that Goldsborough's anti-strike restraining order was an illegal decree calling for "involuntary servitude," Goldsborough said:

"The court thinks there is no basis for misunderstanding. To delay action for ten days would not have injured the union. But the union saw fit not to allow the maintenance of the status quo."

The judge then adjourned court until Friday. At that time, he announced, he will make his decision on Lewis' motion to dismiss the contempt citation, issued after Lewis ignored a restraining order designed to head off the great strike.

Goldsborough also announced that he will decide Friday, or later, whether the Norris-La Guardia act curbing the use of injunctions in labor disputes has any bearing on the case. Lewis' attorneys argued that the restraining order was invalid under the act.

* * *

Big 'If' In Remark.

In a brief verbal reply, Goldsborough made a remark which some of the attorneys at first interpreted as meaning that Lewis was sure to escape a jail sentence even if adjudged contemptuous.

But examination of the official transcript which became available later showed that there was a big "if" in the remarks.

The judge, who had taken the position that even if the Norris-La Guardia Act applies to the case, Lewis 'should have obeyed the restraining order, said:

"I suspect that if the Norris-La Guardia Act applies, . . . it might be a contempt, but I would not imagine the punishment would very seriously interfere with anybody's comfort."

This, many lawyers agreed, meant that a jail sentence was out if the judge should decide that the anti-injunction act is applicable. But if he should side with government lawyers and determine that it has nothing to do with the case, the possibility of jail as well as fines remained.

Lewis Given Warning.

The judge warned Lewis that he is in contempt if it is legally proven that he made "the very

Woman Dares, Driver Glares, Autos Blare

WORCESTER, Mass.—(AP)—A woman shopper, her arms laden with bundles, watched three buses, loaded to capacity, whiz past her.

A fourth bus drew to a stop at the corner where she stood. She inched forward in the line of prospective passengers, all homeward bound.

Her foot touched the bottom step to the bus door.

"That's all," barked the driver. "Sorry, can't take any more." And the door closed.

That was the straw that broke the shopper's patience.

The woman planted herself directly in front of the bus and defied the driver to start. Dinner hour traffic lined up for more than a mile in back of the bus.

A cacophony of automobile horns drew a policeman to the scene. He pleaded with the woman. A second officer arrived. Bystanders took sides.

When the confusion had reached what seemed its height, the woman glared into the bus, shifted her bundles with a saucy shrug and walked off into the gathering darkness.

No one had thought to ask her name.

It's Big Holiday For 2,023 In OSR, County Institutions

Approximately 2,023 persons in the county's institutions and at Mansfield reformatory will line up today for real, old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinners of traditional, turkey, chicken, and roast pork.

And there'll be plenty of trimmings, too, for mashed potatoes, candied sweets, and pumpkin pie head the list.

The 56 children at the Richland county Children's home will have nearly 100 pounds of turkey to consume (if they can hold that much) as a result of a gift. Dressing, gravy, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, green beans, celery, ice cream and cake, milk and bread and butter will complete the menu.

They probably won't have pie out at the county home because sugar is too scarce, but they'll have both turkey and chicken, dressing, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, coffee, bread and butter and fruit.

Mrs. Grover Dickson, matron of the home, said that pie is expected to appear on the week-end menu, however, if the home's sugar allotment from the OPA office in Cleveland arrives.

Seventy-two men and women are now residing at the home.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said there'll be "an average number of prisoners" at the county jail today, but the food will be far above average. The expected 24 prisoners who will be served will be given turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, applesauce, jello, pumpkin pie, coffee, bread and butter.

The cooks at the reformatory will be kept busy with those 1,871 plates to fill! With the exception of the coffee and the flour which goes into the bread, the entire menu of roast pork, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, candied sweet potatoes, buttered peas and pumpkin pie, will come directly from the institution farm, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said.

COMPROMISES END DEADLOCK

Molotov-Byrnes Huddle Results In Agreement On Trieste Issue.

NEW YORK —(AP)— In a sweeping series of compromises, the foreign ministers council smashed last night its deadlock over Trieste and made its greatest progress to date in drafting peace pacts for the axis satellites.

Persons present at the council deliberations said that the ministers reached agreement on all of the questions relating to Trieste and then moved on to settle some of the problems of Italy.

The action came as a result of a private huddle between Secretary of States James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Monday when both made concessions.

It was followed Tuesday by a secret session of the four diplomatic chiefs at which tentative solutions of the time-consuming dispute were reached. Those agreements were solidified last night.

What They Agreed.

In dealing with Trieste, major Adriatic port which has been claimed by both Yugoslavia and Italy and which will be internationalized under the Italian peace pact, the ministers agreed:

1. To order the governor of Trieste to announce 90 days after assuming office whether foreign occupation troops should remain there or whether they could be safely withdrawn. If the governor decided retention was essential to security, they would remain until the danger of a disturbance had passed. Molotov had sought a fixed deadline.

2. To reduce the number of occupation troops in the international zone to 5,000 each for the United States, Britain and Yugoslavia. The reduction would take place when the governor assumed office. The limitation was proposed by Byrnes.

3. To place the troops at the disposal of the governor, making him in effect, their commander-in-chief.

Troop Withdrawal.

4. To make certain that all troops will be withdrawn simultaneously when the governor finds that step is possible.

5. To give the governor authority to appoint the provisional council of government from among local inhabitants of Trieste after consultation with Italy and Yugoslavia.

6. To provide for retention of power by the allied military government if there is any time lag between completion of the peace treaty and assumption of office by the governor.

7. To make provisions of the permanent statute for Trieste apply during the regime of the provisional government — until elections are held.

8. To fix the time for elections at a date within four months after the governor takes office.

9. To offer the council's assurance that it would make every effort to agree upon a governor before the peace pact becomes final.

Actor Karloff's Wife Asks More

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Mrs. Dorothy Stine Pratt filed suit yesterday against Boris Karloff, film actor, in private life William Henry Pratt, asking that $250 monthly support for their child, Sara Jane, 8, be increased to $600 and that she be granted exclusive custody. The couple married here in 1930, separated Oct. 15, 1945. She sued for divorce last December but dismissed her suit last February. Today's complaint declared Karloff's assets are in excess of $100,000 and that he received $90,000 in 1946 for screen, stage and radio work.

Sugar Ration Stamps 9 and 10 Extended

WASHINGTON —(AP)— OPA yesterday extended for 30 days the use of two sugar ration stamps issued for home canning.

Both stamps, No. 9 and 10, were scheduled to expire Nov. 30. They are now good for five pounds of sugar each through Dec. 31, OPA said.

Governor Outlines 4-Point Program For Legislature

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Governor-Elect Thomas J. Herbert said today he would recommend a four-point program to the Ohio legislature which convenes in January.

In an addres sbefore the Cleveland Advertising club, Ohio's new governor outlined the following program which he will recommend to the general assembly:

1—Adequate financial assistance to the public schools of Ohio "so that every boy and girl in the state may receive the benefits of a good public school education"

2—An extensive state highway construction program.

3—Additional hospital facilities for the mentally ill.

4—A constructive program for the care of the tubercula including additional hospital facilities and increased administrative supervision.

Herbert asserted the state had been dilatory in the care and control of tuberculosis.

On the subject of public school financing, the governor-elect said that Ohio teachers and other school employes are not being adequately paid with the result that serious shortages in such personnel exist

BRIEFS

Scooter Stolen—Floyd Morrow, 82 East First street, reported to police yesterday theft of a $2 scooter belonging to his son. He said it was stolen from North Walnut street.

Lights Smashed—Shots from air rifles destroyed about 10 window lights in his garage and a porch light, Edward West, 310 Newman street, told police yesterday. He said several boys own rifles in his neighborhood.

Roof Damaged—Fire damaged a roof at the Mansfield Brass company, North Diamond street, yesterday about 2 p. m., firemen reported. Damage, caused by a furnace underneath the roof, was slight, they said.

Reports Bogus Check—Charles Feinberg, of Komitos Clothing store, North Park street, reported to police yesterday the cashing of a $65 bad check for a man who got $45 worth of merchandise from the store and $20 cash.

Woman Injured—Mrs Chester Adryan, 29, of Bellefontaine, suffered a bruised right knee when a car in which she was riding driven by her husband was struck by another car driven by Gene H. Zediker. The accident occured on Park avenue west near Wood street.

Motorists Booked—Charged with speeding, Edward G. Kirk, Ashland, R D 1, and Chester A. Berry, Akron, yesterday were ordered to appear in court next Wednesday and Dec 7, respectively Berry was released under $25 bond

Reports Pocket Picked—J. F Byerly, 287 Newman street, told police yesterday that he lost $13 in cash to a pickpocket he believes followed him from the post office to a West Fourth street cafe He described the suspect as being about 55 years old, neatly dressed and wearing a grey check suit.

Gets Washer, But Loses Soap Hoard

CHICAGO— (AP) —The washing machine Mrs. Mary Karedis has been awaiting several months is scheduled to be delivered almost any day now, but she's not happy —her hoard of soap is gone.

She told police that burglars entered the basement storeroom of her home and stole 50 boxes of soapflakes, and two cases of bar soap. The soap collection, she said, was acquired by standing in various lines over a period of two years.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you

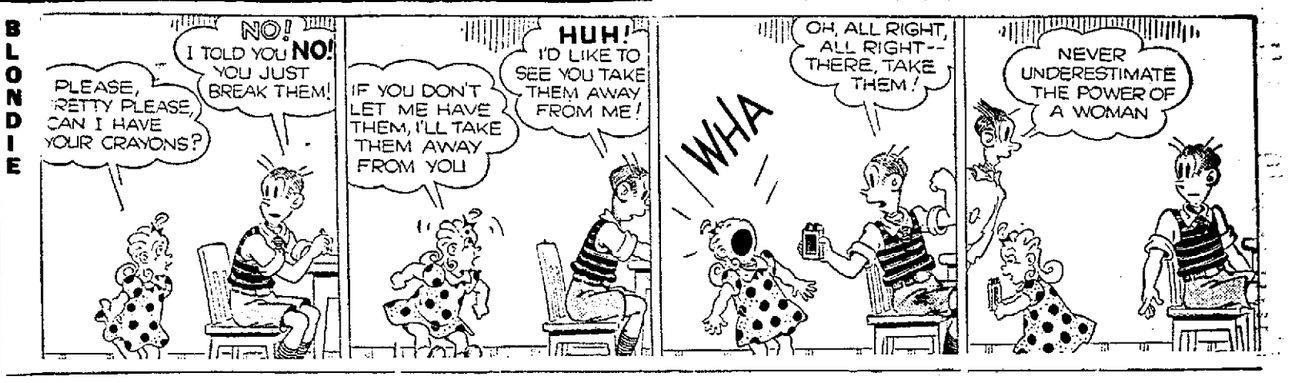
WHAT IS THIS? A GAG?
I WAS TRYING TO TELL YOU, CHIEF—WHOEVER IS FLYING THAT BLACK PLANE HAS BEEN RIBBING COMMERCIAL SKYWRITING.
All My Love! Your Flag!
THERE'S ONLY ONE SKYWRITING OUTFIT IN METROPOLIS... "MERRILL SKYWRITERS, INC." FIND OUT WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT.
RIGHT!
MEANWHILE, "TWITCHY" FENTON'S GANG HASTILY DEPARTS FROM THE SCENE OF A ROBBERY...
THOSE BANDITS ARE ESCAPING!
BUT THEY WON'T GET FAR. I STEPPED ON AN ALARM BUTTON. HERE COME POLICE CARS!

BLONDIE



PLEASE, PRETTY PLEASE, CAN I HAVE YOUR CRAYONS?
NO! I TOLD YOU NO! YOU JUST BREAK THEM!
IF YOU DON'T LET ME HAVE THEM, I'LL TAKE THEM AWAY FROM YOU!
HUH! I'D LIKE TO SEE YOU TAKE THEM AWAY FROM ME!
WHA
OH, ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT-- THERE, TAKE THEM!

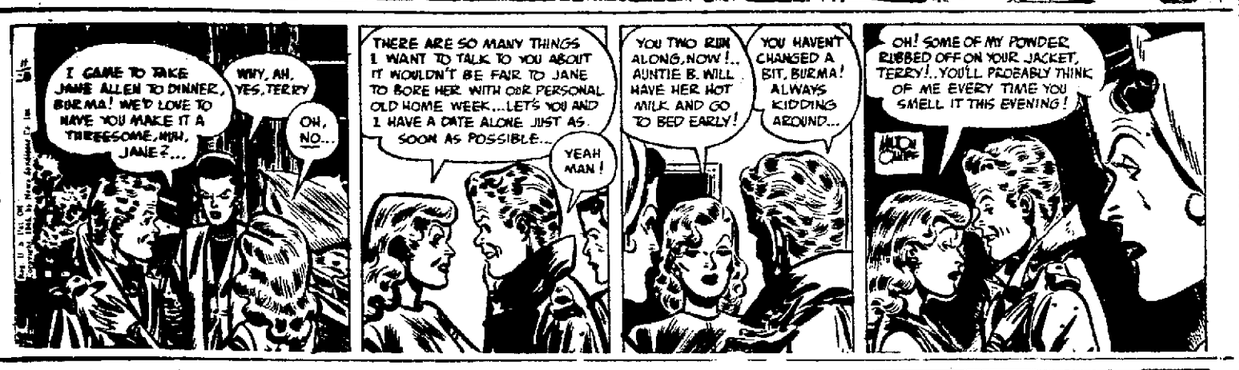
TERRY & PIRATES



I CAME TO TAKE JANE ALLEN TO DINNER, BURMA! WE'D LOVE TO HAVE YOU MAKE IT A THREESOME, HUH, JANE?...
WHY, AH, YES, TERRY
OH, NO...
THERE ARE SO MANY THINGS I WANT TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT IT WOULDN'T BE FAIR TO JANE TO BORE HER WITH OUR PERSONAL OLD HOME WEEK...LET'S YOU AND I HAVE A DATE ALONE JUST AS SOON AS POSSIBLE...
YEAH MAN!
YOU TWO RUN ALONG, NOW!.. AUNTIE B. WILL HAVE HER HOT MILK AND GO TO BED EARLY!
YOU HAVEN'T CHANGED A BIT, BURMA! ALWAYS KIDDING AROUND...
OH! SOME OF MY POWDER RUBBED OFF ON YOUR JACKET, TERRY!..YOU'LL PROBABLY THINK OF ME EVERY TIME YOU SMELL IT THIS EVENING!

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Striped Chipmunk sat on the old stone wall. On one side was the Old Orchard. Facing the other way he could look across the Green Meadows to the Old Pasture and the Green Forest. Bushes grew along both sides of the old wall. They gave protection to feathered folk and small furry folk. It was because of this that Farmer Brown allowed them to grow there. Now all the leaves had fallen. It was easy to see far in all directions. Likewise it was easy for searching eyes on the outside to look in and see the old stone wall and any one who might be on it.

"I'm thankful for those bushes," said Striped Chipmunk to no one but himself. "I certainly am. Even without the leaves they are a great protection. Hungry folks looking for a Chipmunk dinner may look in but they can't get in quickly enough to catch me."

He was sitting on a flat stone on the top of the old wall. It was his favorite stone. He loved to sit there when there was no work to be done. There was none to be done now. There would be none to do for a long time, for Old Man Winter was close at hand and Striped Chipmunk would sleep most of the time until he left at the approach of sweet Mistress Spring.

It was Thanksgiving Day. Of course Striped Chipmunk didn't know this, for Thanksgiving is a day set apart by Man, but the spirit of it was in the heart of the bright-eyed little Squirrel with the pretty striped coat and the happy disposition. It was very still, all the Merry Little Breezes were elsewhere or asleep. It was warm, for Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was smiling his broadest, and his smile is always warm, even in winter. The distant Purple Hills could be seen only dimly through a haze that was like a soft blue veil. There was a sweet and gentle silence, as if the hush of rest and peace possessed all the Great World.

"I'm thankful for this last lovely day before I go to sleep," said Striped Chipmunk as he looked off over the Green Meadows, and indeed it was a day to be thankful for.

Presently he went down in an opening between the stones of the old wall. In a few minutes he was back again. He had brought a fat hickory nut from a storeroom underground beneath the old wall. He sat up. Holding the nut in his paws he turned it to find the best place for those sharp, stout teeth of his to get through that hard shell. As he ate the sweet nutmeat he thought of that well filled storeroom of his and how he had worked to fill it.

"I'm thankful," thought he, "that we had good weather for harvesting those nuts. I haven't a worry in the world in so far as food is concerned, and I'm thankful for that. How Peter Rabbit and some others manage to live through the winter with no food at all stored away, having to hunt for it day by day in good weather and bad, I don't understand. I'm thankful I don't have to live that way. I certainly am. I'm glad I belong to a thrifty family. That is something to be thankful for."

He saw his big cousin, Happy Jack Gray Squirrel, in a tree in the Old Orchard. "He may be my cousin but he is no friend of mine," thought Striped Chipmunk. "He wouldn't have let me have a single fat nut if he could have helped himself, and I wouldn't have gotten so many but for those pockets in my cheeks. I'm thankful that I can carry home more than one nut at a time. Happy Jack is big and handsome but I don't envy him. Good looks don't always mean good sense. Instead of having one or more good storehouses and filling them with food for the winter, that foolish cousin of mine buries nuts and acorns separately in the ground and under leaves. Then when the ground freezes, or is covered with ice, he can't get them when he is hungry. Seems a foolish way to me. I'm thankful I'm not that foolish."

Late that afternoon a chill wind swept over the old stone wall. Striped Chipmunk didn't know it. He was curled up in his snug bedroom where chill winds and Jack Frost couldn't get to him. "I'm thankful I'm a Chipmunk and not some one else," murmured Striped Chipmunk drowsily, and fell asleep.

The next story: "What Striped Chipmunk Didn't Know."

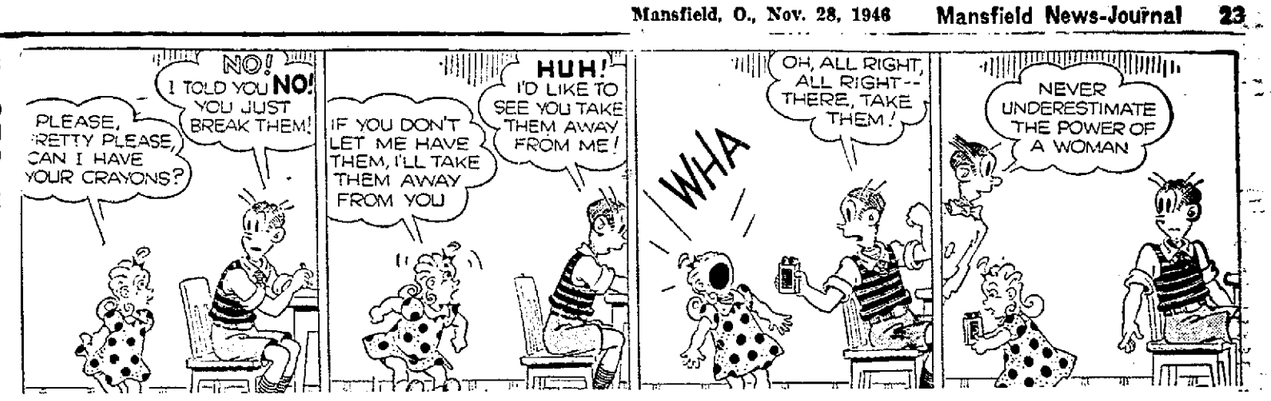
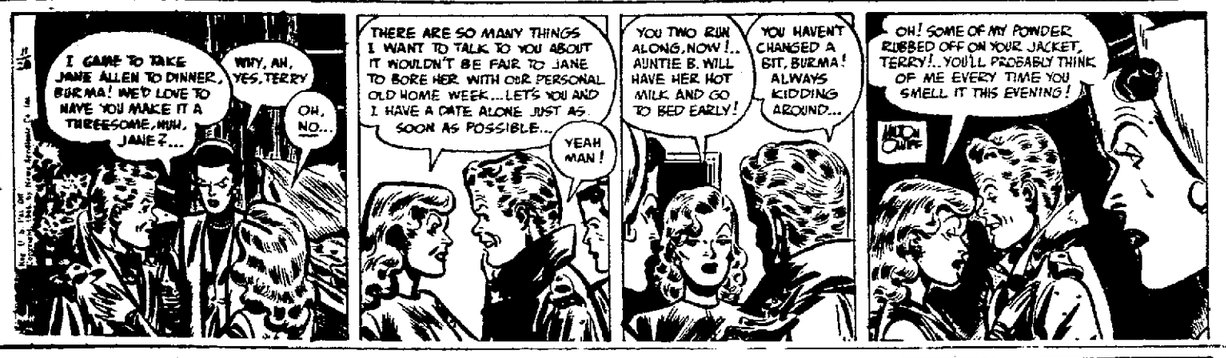
WHAT IS THIS? A GAG?
I WAS TRYING TO TELL YOU, CHIEF—WHOEVER IS FLYING THAT BLACK PLANE HAS BEEN RIBBING COMMERCIAL SKYWRITING.
All My Love To You, Hag!!
THERE'S ONLY ONE SKYWRITING OUTFIT IN METROPOLIS... "MERRILL SKYWRITERS, INC." FIND OUT WHAT THIS IS ALL ABOUT.
RIGHT!
MEANWHILE, "TWITCHY" FENTON'S GANG HASTILY DEPARTS FROM THE SCENE OF A ROBBERY...
THOSE BANDITS ARE ESCAPING!
BUT THEY WON'T GET FAR. I STEPPED ON AN ALARM BUTTON. HERE COME POLICE CARS!

BLONDIE



PLEASE, PRETTY PLEASE, CAN I HAVE YOUR CRAYONS?
NO! I TOLD YOU NO! YOU JUST BREAK THEM!
IF YOU DON'T LET ME HAVE THEM, I'LL TAKE THEM AWAY FROM YOU
HUH! I'D LIKE TO SEE YOU TAKE THEM AWAY FROM ME!
WHA
OH, ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT—THERE, TAKE THEM!
NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF A WOMAN

TERRY & PIRATES



I CAME TO TAKE JANE ALLEN TO DINNER, BURMA! WE'D LOVE TO HAVE YOU MAKE IT A THREESOME, HUH, JANE?...
WHY, AH, YES, TERRY
OH, NO...
THERE ARE SO MANY THINGS I WANT TO TALK TO YOU ABOUT IT WOULDN'T BE FAIR TO JANE TO BORE HER WITH OUR PERSONAL OLD HOME WEEK... LET'S YOU AND I HAVE A DATE ALONE JUST AS SOON AS POSSIBLE...
YEAH MAN!
YOU TWO RUN ALONG, NOW!.. AUNTIE B. WILL HAVE HER HOT MILK AND GO TO BED EARLY!
YOU HAVEN'T CHANGED A BIT, BURMA! ALWAYS KIDDING AROUND...
OH! SOME OF MY POWDER RUBBED OFF ON YOUR JACKET, TERRY!.. YOU'LL PROBABLY THINK OF ME EVERY TIME YOU SMELL IT THIS EVENING!

ORPHAN ANNIE

THANKSGIVING DAY! WISH I COULD BUY YOU A BIG DINNER, KID—TURKEY—ALL THE TRIMMINGS—PUMPKIN PIE—STUFFIN'— BUT I HAPPEN TO BE A LITTLE BROKE—11-28-46
HOW ABOUT ME BUYIN' YOU THANKSMIN' DINNER? US, THAT IS— HERE! LOOK!
GREAT STARS AND SATELLITES! WHAT DID YOU DO? ROB TH' U.S. TREASURY?
NO! IT'S MINE—C'MON! THAT LOOKS LIKE A GOOD PLACE—THIS IS ON ME—
WELL, I'LL BE— NEVER THOUGHT I'D LET A WOMAN SUPPORT ME—
HAROLD GRAY

GASOLINE ALLEY

DO YOU MEAN, BIX, THAT YOU ARE GOING THROUGH WITH IT? DO YOU KNOW THAT MORE MARRIED MEN DIED IN THE LAST 30 YEARS THAN SINGLE MEN?
IS THAT REALLY TRUE? ANYWAY, IT DOESN'T MATTER.
YOU DON'T KNOW WHEN YOU'RE WELL OFF! NOW YOU ARE YOUR OWN BOSS—MASTER OF YOUR SOUL.
IF THAT'S WHAT I'VE BEEN ALL THIS TIME, I'M TIRED OF IT.
ISN'T IT FUNNY HOW A FELLA WILL DIVE HEAD-FIRST INTO ALL THE TROUBLES, IRRITATIONS AND RESTRICTIONS WITHOUT ASKING ADVICE OF A MARRIED MAN!
YOU'LL BE SORRY!
LAY OFF HIM, WILMER. DON'T DISCOURAGE HIM BEFORE HE EVEN GETS STARTED.
DON'T WORRY, MR. WALLET. NOBODY IN THE WORLD COULD DISCOURAGE ME NOW!

DICK TRACY

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT THINGS IN VOICE TRAINING IS PROPER BREATHING. LOOK, CHILD— PLACE HANDS ON HIPS.
NOW, AS YOU TAKE A DEEP BREATH, SING LA, LA, LA, LA, LA, LA!
HELLO, EVERYBODY.
I DON'T KNOW WHAT HAPPENED. EVERYTHING WENT BLACK! SPOTS BEFORE MY EYES! TOO MUCH EXERTION, NO DOUBT.
WHICH ONE OF THESE DO YOU WANT?
THAT IS THE PIER WE WILL USE.
CHESTER GOULD

RIP KIRBY

WE HAVE TO GET BACK TO TOWN, SWEETHEART.
SUCH A SKETCHY HOME LIFE WE LEAD, SWANEE! SOMETIMES I WISH YOU WERE A BOOKKEEPER, OR SOMETHING... ANYTHING BUT A BAND LEADER!
BYE, POP. COME SOON AGAIN.. AN' BRING MR. KIRBY, WILLYA?
YEAH! HUBBA, HUBBA!
RIVERS, YOU'RE A LUCKY MAN TO HAVE SUCH A FAMILY. TO PROTECT THEM, YOU'D BETTER PLAY ALONG WITH THIS BLACKMAILER. I'LL HELP ALL I CAN.
LUCKY— AND A FOOL! ONLY A FOOL WOULD BE IN SUCH A FIX!

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Striped Chipmunk sat on the old stone wall. On one side was the Old Orchard. Facing the other way he could look across the Green Meadows to the Old Pasture and the Green Forest. Bushes grew along both sides of the old wall. They gave protection to feathered folk and small furry folk. It was because of this that Farmer Brown allowed them to grow there. Now all the leaves had fallen. It was easy to see far in all directions. Likewise it was easy for searching eyes on the outside to look in and see the old stone wall and any one who might be on it.

"I'm thankful for those bushes," said Striped Chipmunk to no one but himself. "I certainly am. Even without the leaves they are a great protection. Hungry folks looking for a Chipmunk dinner may look in but they can't get in quickly enough to catch me."

He was sitting on a flat stone on the top of the old wall. It was his favorite stone. He loved to sit there when there was no work to be done. There was none to be done now. There would be none to do for a long time, for Old Man Winter was close at hand and Striped Chipmunk would sleep most of the time until he left at the approach of sweet Mistress Spring.

It was Thanksgiving Day. Of course Striped Chipmunk didn't know this, for Thanksgiving is a day set apart by Man, but the spirit of it was in the heart of the bright-eyed little Squirrel with the pretty striped coat and the happy disposition. It was very still, all the Merry Little Breezes were elsewhere or asleep. It was warm, for Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was smiling his broadest, and his smile is always warm, even in winter. The distant Purple Hills could be seen only dimly through a haze that was like a soft blue veil. There was a sweet and gentle silence, as if the hush of rest and peace possessed all the Great World.

"I'm thankful for this last lovely day before I go to sleep," said Striped Chipmunk as he looked off over the Green Meadows, and indeed it was a day to be thankful for.

Presently he went down in an opening between the stones of the old wall. In a few minutes he was back again. He had brought a fat hickory nut from a storeroom underground beneath the old wall. He sat up. Holding the nut in his paws he turned it to find the best place for those sharp, stout teeth of his to get through that hard shell. As he ate the sweet nutmeat he thought of that well filled storeroom of his and how he had worked to fill it.

"I'm thankful," thought he, "that we had good weather for harvesting those nuts. I haven't a worry in the world in so far as food is concerned, and I'm thankful for that. How Peter Rabbit and some others manage to live through the winter with no food at all stored away, having to hunt for it day by day in good weather and bad, I don't understand. I'm thankful I don't have to live that way. I certainly am. I'm glad I belong to a thrifty family. That is something to be thankful for."

He saw his big cousin, Happy Jack Squirrel, in a tree in the Old Orchard. "He may be my cousin but he is no friend of mine," thought Striped Chipmunk. "He wouldn't have let me have a single fat nut if he could have helped himself, and I wouldn't have gotten so many but for those pockets in my cheeks. I'm thankful that I can carry home more than one nut at a time. Happy Jack is big and handsome but I don't envy him. Good looks don't always mean good sense. Instead of having one or more good storehouses and filling them with food for the winter, that foolish cousin of mine buries nuts and acorns separately in the ground and under leaves. Then when the ground freezes, or is covered with ice, he can't get them when he is hungry. Seems a foolish way to me. I'm thankful I'm not that foolish."

Late that afternoon a chill wind swept over the old stone wall. Striped Chipmunk didn't know it. He was curled up in his snug bedroom where chill winds and Jack Frost couldn't get to him. "I'm thankful I'm a Chipmunk and not some one else," murmured Striped Chipmunk drowsily, and fell asleep.

The next story: "What Striped Chipmunk Didn't Know."

NAVY PROGRAM GETS BIG BOOST, OFFICER SAYS

Attendance of 100 Proves Enouraging to Heiser.

"Off to a grand and glorious start!"

Thus Lt. Cmdr. A. E. Heiser yesterdy described the results of Tuesday night's meeting of naval reserveofficers held in the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce offices.

"Although the weather was inclement we had more than 100 officers present from Mansfield and 10 surrounding cities," Heiser said.

Purpose of the meeting was to explain in some detail the Navy's program for Mansfield, the $300,000 armory, and the personnel required for the 195th Division to be organized as well as the Electronic Warfare company and platoons.

"I expect that from this meeting which was attended by the Naval Advisory council as well as the reserve officers, will come the selection of the commanding officers for Division 195 and for the Electronic Warfare company and platoons," Heiser said.

"It was a marvelous thing to me to see the enthusiasm with which the whole program was received. It is a grand and glorious start made possible to a large degree by the splendid cooperation of the newspaper," he concluded.

"I hope that we have as good a turnout of enlisted men at the meeting to be held for them on Dec. 3, at 7 p. m. in the auditorium of John Simpson junior high school."

Attending last night's meeting were reserve officers from Mansfield, Bucyrus, Ashland, Shelby, Galion, New London, Marion, Mt. Gilead, Mt. Vernon, Lexington and Fredericktown.

GOP Senators To Caucus Dec. 5

COLUMBUS— (AP)—Republican state senators will caucus here Dec. 5 to name a floor leader, clerk and patronage and standing committees. Sen. Frank E. Whittemore of Summit county appeared to have the inside track for continuing as floor leader and Thomas E. Bateman of Columbus for retaining the clerkship.

In the house of representatives, Rep. Paul L. McCormick of Logan county announced he was seeking the post of majority floor leader which includes the duties of speaker pro tem.

Barclay On Bridge

AFTER TWO players have failed to open the bidding, third-hand is in a position where he should consider any kind of a playing trick important. Even if he has not quite the recognized minimum amount of high card strength for opening in other positions, he has several good reasons for placing a value on long strings of one suit which will prove valuable if it becomes the trump. But, after he does this, he must be prepared to rebid plenty if his partner tries to become the declarer.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♥

In a big duplicate, some Norths opened with 1-Diamond and the side reached 4-Hearts. At two West opened it fourth-hand with 1-Club and regretted it, as his opponents then reached the heart game. At some the deal was passed out, to South's regret. The soundest bidding, from a competitive standpoint, was that shown in the table. South's reasons for opening are twofold—to prepare a bidding defense against a possible strong fourth hand, and to strive toward a game for his own side if North had nearly enough to open.

At one table the bidding went just like that except that South passed the 3-No Trumps. North took the third spade, led hearts, losing the second trick to the A, and the defenders then scored a third spade plus three clubs to set it two tricks.

With South's seven-card suit and doubtful re-entries, he should not leave the 3-No Trumps in, but take out to a heart game, as shown. Following a normal club lead, then a spade switch, he can discard his losing spade by ruffing a club, finessing diamonds and then taking two more diamonds before losing the lead in trumps. Thus he drops only two tricks in clubs and one in hearts.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A man with a lot of baggage stood cussing on the Albuquerque platform. "S'matter?" asked the station agent.

"I had to get that Super-Chief," was the explanation. "Drove seventy miles an hour for ninety miles—busted two springs—and then I miss it by a single minute.

"My goodness," commented the agent. "Anybody seeing the way you're carrying on would think you'd missed it by an hour!"

A clerk who had been more trusting than wise in handling the public finally began to see the light. When the boss came in, the clerk explained, "I sold a man a pair of shoes for six dollars. He only had a dollar forty with him, so I took that as a deposit.

"You fool," lamented the boss.

"He'll come back all right," said the now-confident clerk. "I gave him two left shoes."

An English author broke off his lecture tour in Iowa. "I never minded people looking at their watches while I talked," he told his agent, "but out there they shake them."

* * *

A reader of society columns wondered why so many gentlemen from Tiflis and Batum seemed to be princes. George Jean Nathan explained, "In Georgia," a prince is a man who rates the title of 'mister' in another country."

* * *

Friedman was aghast when he walked into his apartment and found his wife, Jezebel, walking on the ceiling. "Hello," she said calmly.

"What do you mean, 'hello?'" he ejaculated. "What are you doing walking on that ceiling? Don't you know it's against the law of gravity?"

There was a terrible crash as Jezebel fell to the floor. One eye buried in the carpet, she glared at him with the other, and blurted, "You had to open that big mouth of yours, didn't you?"

CITY'S TRAFFIC PICTURE DUE TO BRIGHTEN SOON

Boals Says Drivers Will Find Fewer Tangles Downtown.

and wider streets—Boals pointed out that in the down-town section there is room to park only 2,000 of the city's some 12,000 cars.

"Is it any wonder the drivers must scout for long periods in order to find a place to park?" he asked.

Boals said that Mansfield has more cars per capita than most other cities the same size, pointing out that Zanesville, about the same size as Mansfield, has only 8,000 cars.

"In addition, the city has its business district crammed into a smaller space than most other cities," he declared. "Consequently, the traffic is crammed."

He said in a downtown area bounded by Fifth street, Franklin avenue, First street and Sturges avenue-Bowman street, there is room to park only one-tenth of the city's autos.

The commissioner said that five years ago he predicted today's tangle and recommended that the city purchase property on which to erect three downtown garages. "The proposal never even got to the planning stage," he said.

Harry Hollingsworth, chairman of council's traffic committee, said that no definite plans are being considered by his committee to give the city additional parking space.

He said his committee looked into the problem about five months ago but found land prices prohibitive. The street widening question has never been discussed by his committee, he said.

Hollingsworth said his committee has been working mainly on the re-vamping of the city traffic signal system.

Boals said he's received several letters commending the new signal system and said that recently a traffic check showed a record number of cars were moved through two important intersections in an hour.

Woman Calls Raft 'Wonderful Lover'

CHICAGO—(AP)—The sister of Mrs. Claire Borin, 37, one-time aspirant for a movie "Panther Woman" role, testified yesterday Mrs. Borin and "George Raft" stayed two hours in a locked hotel bedroom and that Mrs. Borin told her later "he was a wonderful lover."

Raft was not further identified, although the sister, Mrs. Lillian Isaacs of Los Angeles, aid that a "Mack Gray" was Raft's bodyguard.

Mrs. Isaacs testified on the eighth day of a divorce trial before a superior court jury hearing cross complaints of adultery filed by Nathan Borin, 54, wealthy arts company president, and Mrs. Borin.

LEWIS REBUKED BY TRIAL JUDGE

great mistake" of disobeying the court's directive.

AFL General Counsel Joseph Padway declared it is "fundamental that the right to work or not, as they see fit."

"The court agrees with you on that," Goldsborough interjected.

"So does the government," Assistant Attorney General John Sonnett chimed in.

Padway said the United Mine Workers were willing, if necessary, to leave the question to the people of the United States, through legislation, whether they wished to abridge the right to strike.

Goldsborough retorted that, in his opinion, almost the whole of Padway's argument was "beside the point."

Lewis Restive.

Lewis showed signs of restiveness as the long arguments went on. At the end, he spoke no word to his counsel nor to reporters as he gathered up coat, cane and big black hat and stalked from the courtroom.

The trial, with its vast import, opened in a tiny courtroom electric with tension.

Outside, the tension was evidenced during the luncheon recess when a free lance photographer tried to get a close-up shot of Lewis in his car and instead got a skinned knuckle from Lewis' cane.

The opening day of the trial was largely a battle of legal wits. With Lewis silently listening, his lawyers quoted law by the hour to prove that the United Mine Workers' chieftain was immune from anti-strike orders.

But Goldsborough, in obvious disagreement, declared that society was trying to protect itself "from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration."

Moreover, Goldsborough slapped a longer restraining order on Lewis.

On Nov. 18, Goldsborough had issued an order which vainly called upon Lewis to cancel his notice that his contract with the government was void. This notice signalled the soft coal walkout, since the miners do not work without a contract.

TREATED FOR CUTS

Willie Wigg, of the Erie car camp, was treated at General hospital last night for cuts on the right forearm which he told police were inflicted by a Ruban Jones. He said the two had been drinking together and that an argument followed.

ORDERED TO COURT

Charged with operating a motor vehicle on a temporary permit unaccompanied by a licensed driver, Betty M. Yent, Cleveland, was released under $25 bond for her appearance in traffic court Wednesday.

MOTOR MAKERS TAKE VACATION

DETROIT —(INS)— Most Detroit automobile manufacturers suspended production last night until Monday, partly as a coal-saving measure.

Only General Motors, the Packard Motor Car company and the Kaiser-Frazer corporation will operate over the long holiday weekend.

The Ford Motor company's 75 thousand Detroit-area employes will not report for work until Monday. Chrysler will recall only 13 thousand of its 63 thousand employes back Friday. The Hudson Motor company and Nash will be closed.

All automobile plants will be closed Thanksgiving day.

The companies declaring the holiday say that they did so because of low banks of sheet steel and other material shortages, as well as a desire to conserve coal.

SOUTHERN DEMS RAP MARCANTONIA

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep John E. Rankin, D., Miss., said Wednesday that Southern Democrats may challenge the right of Rep. Vito Marcantonio, New York American Laborite, to take his seat in the new congress.

Rankin's statement followed an announcement that agents of the house campaign investigating committee would be sent into Marcantonio's district to investigate the circumstances under which he was reelected.

Chairman Percy Priest, D., Tenn., said the investigators would seek to determine whether there was coercion or intimidation of voters.

California Paper Recalls Workers

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, its disputes with seven labor unions settled, has welcomed back all its employes and announced publication would be resumed next Monday.

The newspaper, closed since Sept 4, last night signed a two year contract with the CIO American Newspaper Guild which granted a 14 per cent pay increase that will give experienced reporters $80 weekly

REJECTS SUMMONS

LONDON —(INS)— Press reports asserted Wednesday that the All-India congress party leaders have rejected the British summons to a London meeting called to avoid a complete breakdown in the Indian interim government. Political circles said the call was a "crisis action" prompted by the progressive worsening of relations between the warring Moslems and Hindus

Goldsborough retorted that, in his opinion, almost the whole of Padway's argument was "beside the point."

Lewis Restive.

Lewis showed signs of restiveness as the long arguments went on. At the end, he spoke no word to his counsel nor to reporters as he gathered up coat, cane and big black hat and stalked from the courtroom.

The trial, with its vast import, opened in a tiny courtroom electric with tension.

Outside, the tension was evidenced during the luncheon recess when a free lance photographer tried to get a close-up shot of Lewis in his car and instead got a skinned knuckle from Lewis' cane.

The opening day of the trial was largely a battle of legal wits. With Lewis silently listening, his lawyers quoted law by the hour to prove that the United Mine Workers' chieftain was immune from anti-strike orders.

But Goldsborough, in obvious disagreement, declared that society was trying to protect itself "from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration."

Moreover, Goldsborough slapped a longer restraining order on Lewis.

On Nov. 18, Goldsborough had issued an order which vainly called upon Lewis to cancel his notice that his contract with the government was void. This notice signalled the soft coal walkout, since the miners do not work without a contract.

TREATED FOR CUTS

Willie Wigg, of the Erie car camp, was treated at General hospital last night for cuts on the right forearm which he told police were inflicted by a Ruban Jones. He said the two had been drinking together and that an argument followed.

ORDERED TO COURT

Charged with operating a motor vehicle on a temporary permit unaccompanied by a licensed driver, Betty M. Yent, Cleveland, was released under $25 bond for her appearance in traffic court Wednesday.

MOTOR MAKERS TAKE VACATION

DETROIT —(INS)— Most Detroit automobile manufacturers suspended production last night until Monday, partly as a coal-saving measure.

Only General Motors, the Packard Motor Car company and the Kaiser-Frazer corporation will operate over the long holiday weekend.

The Ford Motor company's 75 thousand Detroit-area employes will not report for work until Monday. Chrysler will recall only 13 thousand of its 63 thousand employes back Friday. The Hudson Motor company and Nash will be closed.

All automobile plants will be closed Thanksgiving day.

The companies declaring the holiday say that they did so because of low banks of sheet steel and other material shortages, as well as a desire to conserve coal.

SOUTHERN DEMS RAP MARCANTONIA

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. John E. Rankin, D., Miss., said Wednesday that Southern Democrats may challenge the right of Rep. Vito Marcantonio, New York American Laborite, to take his seat in the new congress.

Rankin's statement followed an announcement that agents of the house campaign investigating committee would be sent into Marcantonio's district to investigate the circumstances under which he was reelected.

Chairman Percy Priest, D., Tenn., said the investigators would seek to determine whether there was coercion or intimidation of voters.

California Paper Recalls Workers

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, its disputes with seven labor unions settled, has welcomed back all its employes and announced publication would be resumed next Monday.

The newspaper, closed since Sept. 4, last night signed a two year contract with the CIO American Newspaper Guild which granted a 14 per cent pay increase that will give experienced reporters $80 weekly.

REJECTS SUMMONS

LONDON —(INS)— Press reports asserted Wednesday that the All-India congress party leaders have rejected the British summons to a London meeting called to avoid a complete breakdown in the Indian interim government. Political circles said the call was a "crisis action" prompted by the progressive worsening of relations between the warring Moslems and Hindus.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

When Thanksgiving Day Was Young

THE STORY of the first Thanksgiving in America has been told so often that frequently it is left to become almost the sole property of classrooms in the elementary grades of school. Public speakers and writers are inclined to concern themselves with phases of the holiday which they consider more timely.

Well, it is true the story of the Pilgrims and the Indians feasting together after the first harvest hardly needs retelling to any adult. But what of some of the people who were there. Miles Standish must have been there. He was captain of militia in the Plymouth colony. And as a thoroughgoing military man it is likely that he laid aside his blunderbuss with mixed relief and caution—keeping it fairly handy just in case some trouble should break out between the Pilgrims and their red-skinned guests. The nation might easily see a comparison between its own position in world affairs today and that of Miles Standish on the Plymouth holiday.

John Alden and Priscilla must have been at the feast, too. The story of their romance and the "jilting" of Standish was still to become history. Also in the future was the fine family of 11 children which John Alden and Priscilla raised. History books tell little about that.

Yet, on later anniversaries of the first Thanksgiving, Priscilla Alden must have looked around the table at her growing family and felt a sense of pride mingled with memories of all the little joys and sorrows children bring into the lives of parents.

Priscilla Alden must have been thankful for her home, her husband, and her family. Perhaps modern Americans can take a lesson in things-to-be-thankful-for from her.

Let us rejoice in family, friends, and the roofs over our heads—remembering that there are many who are still hunting almost frantically for a place to live. And maybe we can temper our thankfulness by helping some homeless couple find a place to live, or by bringing a bit of cheer to a cheerless family.

Let us be thankful for the John Aldens and thousands like them who never got into the story books but who gave us the families that made our history and that still make our community life today.

Education In a Changing World

THERE has been almost an epidemic throughout the country of new college presidents. In their inaugural speeches these men and women have emphasized the solemn obligations resting on higher education at this period when colleges and universities are packed as never before with youthful seekers after knowledge and training.

One of the new presidents is Sarah Gibson Blanding, elected as the first woman to head 85-year-old Vassar college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. She was former dean of women at Cornell university, and a graduate of the University of Kentucky. Dr. Blanding in her acceptance speech said:

"The blitz reduced to rubble more than the churches of Europe and the atom bomb wiped out more than Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Man's relation to the universe was profoundly changed. If a college is to serve this changing world it cannot stand still. As Alice in Wonderland discovered in the world behind the looking glass, you must run very fast indeed to stay where you are, when the very ground under your feet is moving."

Education is in safe hands when leaders open their minds to a realization that this is an era of new patterns of living—new as man has never known newness before.

No one wants to scrap all heritages from the past. Those need to be retained which offer sure and steady foundation for the new superstructure. But old academic claptrap which does nothing but clutter up the mind, may well be discarded.

Help Foil An Insidious Killer!

IF TOMORROW'S headlines blazed that a killer had secretly taken the lives of 13 Mansfielders so far this year, the entire community would be galvanized into action. Money and time would be no object, if it were further revealed that this fiend was plotting against 43 persons in the city and 12 in the county whom he had marked for invalidism at the very least, in the first 11 months of 1946.

Yet all this has actually happened. Thirteen persons have died of tuberculosis this year; 55 new cases of the disease have been diagnosed.

Tuberculosis is a sneak who robs men, women and children of their health and often of their lives. Yet like most sneaks, tuberculosis quails and is beaten when it is exposed.

The job of exposing it has been left largely to the Richland County Tuberculosis association which detected the 55 cases this year. The association is supported by your purchase of Christmas seals.

Need more be said?

Health Factor In Retirement Age

A RETIREMENT board, composed of medical psychiatric officials, was recommended by Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp, speaking before a meeting of the American Public Health association.

The ordinary workman, who, in most plants today, is compelled to retire at a certain age, would be more fairly treated by this method. His abilities would be tested, his reactions to working conditions would be determined, and his health considered. If this were done when retirement age was reached, only the really unfit would be eliminated. Thus would be avoided much waste of ability and experience and untold loss of morale.

Men in executive positions occupy responsible jobs long after the time when they would have been forced into inactivity had they been lower in the industrial scale. The factory worker also would like to have the privilege of leading a useful life as long as he is physically and mentally fitted to do so.

According to a child psychologist, "the polite, orderly and well-behaved child may be seriously maladjusted"—so if you happen to run across one of that sort you'll be as surprised as anybody.

Today's thought: "Young fellows who take their education in the easiest way are likely to wake up eventually and find life coming the hardest way."

Peace, as defined by Harry Wade, is "that period after . . . in which the losers cease to fight."

AN UNEXPECTED VISITOR

Big Turkey From South Carolina To Provide White House Dinner

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The president's Thanksgiving dinner will have a Dixie accent as far as the main course is concerned. The White House turkey is a present from Wilton E. Hall, Anderson, S. C., publisher, who served as a 1944 short-term colleague of Harry Truman in the senate.

The turkey is a 35-pound bronze, broad-breasted gobbler raised for the presidential table on Hall's farm near Anderson. It was fed on soybeans, which, South Carolinians maintain, have it all over corn and other turkey feeds.

The presentation was made to Truman a day or two before Thanksgiving by Senator Olin Johnston of South Carolina and his secretaries, Roy A. Powell and Baxter Funderburk.

But the festive bird, already dressed and packed in dry ice, preceded them to the White House.

"I've already seen it," grinned Truman. "We couldn't wait to open it."

After pictures were made, the president directed an assistant to take the turkey down to the White House cold storage room.

"And be sure to handle that bird carefully," he cautioned, as an afterthought.

Rhode Island Turkeys.

Previous presidents have picked their Thanksgiving turkeys from various parts of the USA. President Roosevelt usually received his bird from a fancier in Rhode Island, who liked to demonstrate that, of the six hundred standard varieties of domesticated American turkey—bronze, Narragansett, buff, slate, white, and black—the bronze and Narragansett are the largest.

Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, on the other hand, insisted that Rhode Island turkeys could not compare with those from the Blue Grass state, and used to send a large Kentucky bird to Woodrow Wilson. Senator Alben Barkley agrees with this and swears by the turkeys raised by John H. Perry, Kentucky-Florida publisher.

President Taft always got his turkeys from Tazewell county, Virginia, from which Queen Victoria also received turkeys every year during her reign.

When Franklin Roosevelt celebrated Thanksgiving in Warm Springs—which he preferred to the White House—the turkeys were native Georgians. Five birds were necessary to satisfy the appetites of all the youngsters at Warm Springs.

The late president himself carved the first turkey, surrounded by twelve boys and girls who drew lots to see who would sit nearest him.

Headache Day.

For about one hundred years, Thanksgiving in the White House was no day on which to give thanks. It was a day for grousing and drudgery—the day on which the president got ready to welcome the lame duck congress. "Welcome," however, was not the appropriate word.

Returning to Washington after elections, and with a short do-nothing session ahead, defeated congressmen let off a series of speeches which meant nothing but headaches for the man in the White House. And the history of Thanksgiving day—up until 1933—shows that the president usually spent the day writing his message to congress.

Senator Norris' lame duck amendment abolishing this short session of congress changed all that. But now, in a sense, Harry Truman has almost as many headaches on his hands as in the old pre-Norris days.

For, while congress is not in session, he has to put up with the Republicans conspiring right under his nose to pull the rug from under him at the next congress. And on top of that there is the coal strike and beetle-browed John L. Lewis!

But then, who was it who thought up Thanksgiving as a national holiday, anyway? Not Mr. Truman's Democrats. They were dead set against it. Thanksgiving was a Northern, New England holiday, and back in the early days the Democrats claimed the northerners were exercising undue federal power and trampling on state's rights by making them celebrate Thanksgiving.

So Thanksgiving day did not really become much of a holiday in Washington until around 1845. Then it was the merchants of Washington, who, seeing a chance to sell extra groceries, got busy with advertisements of "champagne by recent packet from New York via Alexandria" and really put across Thanksgiving day in the Nation's Capital.

Continued Shortages.

Speaking of Thanksgiving day food, here is a prediction on various items on the housewife's shopping list and how long they will remain difficult to buy.

Canned Tomatoes — Will continue to be short at least until next July. In the crop year ended with July, 1946, supplies were so short that we consumed 16,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes, about half the normal demand. In the current crop year, ending July, 1947, there will be a slight increase to approximately 21,000,000 cases, but this will still be far short of demands.

Chocolate—Slight shortages of chocolate will continue for the next two or three years, due chiefly to shipping difficulties in the trade lanes from Brazil and West Africa.

Salmon—The very unpredictable salmon continues to run late and short in the waterways of Alaska and our northwestern states. Normal salmon production in pre-war years ranged between 5,000,000 and 8,000,000 cases, but in the season which ended in September of this year, less than 4,000,000 cases were packed for the American market.

Biologists of the Fish and Wildlife Service estimate production will be slightly better next year, but like other scarce commodities, salmon supplies will continue to be less than consumer demands at least for another year.

Tuna — Fanciers of tuna fish salad will get all they want, due to a record-breaking production this year of over 4,000,000 cases, 35 per cent above the 1945 tuna pack.

Bananas—Shipments of bananas from Guatemala, Costa Rica and other Latin American sources will continue below normal for at least another year.

Listen World!

Stop for a Moment—and Think!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

STOP! Drop that turkey wing and stop slurping that cranberry sauce. Stop and think for a couple of minutes just what this day means.

Thanksgiving, 1946, and we're gravy-smeared from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate. But just for once let's absorb something besides gravy.

Thanksgiving, 1946. You've seen Thanksgivings for many years but have you or has America ever before seen a day like this?

No, you haven't. And the chances are you never will again. For here is a day with a cause for rejoicing such as men have never known before from the dawn of time.

Men have fought wars and returned from wars since the beginning of time and women have wept and wondered and rejoiced. And the whole vicious circle has gone round its bloody trail since God first raised the earth from the teeming swamps and breathed His breath into the jungle clay.

But never once, never once in all that time have men truly fought to free themselves from the jungle clutch and strike out for a free and finer trail.

This is the first real Thanksgiving the human race has ever known. For this is the first time that we have set our faces against our savage heritage . . . and fought the beast within ourselves as well as others . . . and sealed the bond with blood.

Stop and think about this. Stop and think that in all the ages even the wisest and best of us have never dared hope that brotherhood would work in the place of brutality, and that man might dare to live free from hate and horror, from waste and carnage, from the cradle to the grave.

Yes, we've talked, we've prayed. We've written poems and dreamed tall dreams of human liberty. But never before have we dared begin to build a machine that might set us free from hate. Deep in our hearts we believed in hate. Deep in our hearts we thought that hate could never be licked, and when we gave thanks it was only for a brief breathing space.

But today we dare to honestly believe in peace. We dare to believe that life can go on without murder . . . that men may really be able to live together in mutual friendliness and self respect.

Stop and think of this amazing fact. We have seen the crowning horror of the worst sort in human life. We are still fouled with the slime and filth of life's ghastliest years and the scars of that conflict will not vanish overnight. We have done irreparable harm and the mark of its agony will be on us as long as we live.

BUT AT LAST, AT LAST THROUGH THE MUCK AND STENCH AND NIGHTMARE OF IT ALL, WE HAVE CAUGHT A NEW GLIMPSE OF WHAT OUR DESTINY WAS MEANT TO BE.

Stop your feasting and your dancing, your drinking and carousing if only for three minutes, and say to yourself—

This is not just a Thanksgiving day. This is a new beginning day. This day is as wonderful and awful and beautiful as the first day of creation; for today we are truly born into a new life and a new hope. And today we have at last crawled out of the muck of the jungle into the wonder of our real beginning.

Now laugh again if you will. Feast and play and swing your joy like a great garland until it reaches from pole to pole. But while you eat that turkey—reach your hand out—touch a star. From this day on we walk a new and shining trail.

(Copyright, 1946)

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Bitter Memories Of Old Coal Miners.

BRIDGEVILLE, Pa. — One of the questions most often heard these days, out beyond the black skies of the coal fields, is this, "Why do the miners follow John L. Lewis so blindly?"

To answer the question, even after days of tramping the coal "patches"—legendary name for small mining communities—it is necessary to qualify it. Literally speaking, they are not following Lewis. They are following their union.

It is true that he has led the union so long that his name has become synonomous with it. Still, it is the union they follow.

Then, why do they follow the union so blindly?

The answer simply is that miners have long memories—and the older the miner the more bitter are his memories.

People who stand amazed at the apparent sheep-like tendencies of miners today—as regards their union leaders—might understand a little better if they could sit in their shacks and shanties, bars and barber shops, churches, schools and company stores and listen to them talk.

Broken-fingered, often more drastically maimed, faces permanently darkened by coal dust which seems to stay in their pores forever, they sit and talk of conditions twenty years ago and more.

Check their conversations with modern operators, business and professional men in the various towns and with newspapermen who have equally long memories, and you find that most of the things they've told you were essentially true.

Take the infamous coal and iron police, for instance—as gay a gang of gestapo-type gunmen and thugs as ever terrorized any community in the world.

They were outlawed by state law in 1935, after public pressure and newspaper exposes finally forced the legislature into action at the conclusion of a six-year fight.

Just mention "coal and iron police" to anyone in coal country today and you hear the same brand of horrifying stories.

Paid by the companies, they dressed in military uniform, bristled with guns, cartridge belts and clubs, and completely ran the mining patches. They dominated civil and municipal life, made local elections a farce, clubbed, shot and beat almost at will.

Then, miners had few civil liberties. Companies controlled their local government. Miners often had to buy everything from company stores at enslaving prices.

They had to obey every whim of the private police who patrolled their patches, and their conditions were described by such people as Novelist Fannie Hurst and then congressman Fiorello La Guardia as "unspeakably, unbelievably horrible." And "worse than any serf or slave system in current world history."

Public opinion was on the miners' side, for the operators had broken the famed government-instigated "Jacksonville, (Fla.) agreement" to pay miners $7.50 daily—then big wages for coal workers.

Today, there are no coal and iron police. Miners have the same civil liberties as other citizens. They run local governments. They needn't buy at company stores if they don't wish, and prices are more reasonable. Living and working conditions are better, and wages are highest in coal mining history.

For these changes, the average miner thanks his union, and thus gives it sometimes blind allegiance today. Although largely correct, it may be that he forgets one factor.

Public sentiment also helped bring about those changes, and today—as contrasted to the twenties—public opinion is not necessarily on his side.

Effect of Miners' Strike Is Worldwide.

WASHINGTON — John L. Lewis' strike against his government has dramatized vividly once again—if any demonstration were needed—the delicate inter-relation and inter-dependence of every part of our complex modern industrial mechanism.

But, serious as are the effects in our own country, what he has done by tying up the basic industry he dominates reaches far beyond our borders. They ramify to disturb the economy of Europe and our political stakes there, which are so high just now.

Affected are shipments of coal and food which have been so much good will to give heart and encouragement to the forces of democracy struggling everywhere on the continent against the tide of totalitarianism.

But, beyond this day-by-day assistance to rehabilitation in Europe, the impression of instability and confusion here can have a most harmful effect. To be influential with the desperate peoples of Europe we must prove that our Democratic institutions are strong and, in the first instance, can serve our own people.

These are obvious observations that have been emphasized repeatedly of late. They can not be stressed too much.

They show again the actuality of the "One World" of which we talk, the dependence of every part upon every other part, and demonstrate again how vital it is that the United Nations erect a world organization that will serve everywhere the intricate industrial system.

Our influence in that endeavor will be measured constantly by our ability to co-operate helpfully. That, in turn, depends upon our own strength and stability.

This brings us back to the disruption of our whole economy by one powerful individual.

It points up, with added force, the need to find a solution for the conflicts in our basic industries. That cannot be long delayed. It will require, too, boldness of approach and willingness to adopt new conceptions.

Because of the provocation in John Lewis, the temptation is easy to go too far. The resentment that has boiled up has its natural outlet in the newly elected congress in which labor is going to have fewer friends.

Restraint and caution are needed to check a punitive legislative raid against all labor and to stop this from going still further.

Some would shuffle off or restrict the various devices we have provided in recent years to give every segment of our people, including labor, a fair share of the benefits of our industrial productive system.

Lewis has given encouragement to the enemies of labor. He has done a disservice to all labor by his defiance of his government, and, by his methods, has beclouded the natural public sympathy for the miners.

Labor has been weakened thereby. It has been weakened further by the support given by the top leadership of both AFL and CIO to the breaking of a contract with the government and a strike against the government.

The people, through congress, recognized the right of labor to protect itself by organizing itself. Labor thereby assumed certain responsibilities to itself and to the people. It has weakened its position with the public.

Marquis Childs

Flood of Books Express Views.

WASHINGTON—Among other things the Republican congress intends to investigate is Elliott Roosevelt and his report of what his father said and did at the series of conferences with Churchill and Stalin. The report is contained in Elliott's best-selling book, "As He Saw It."

Republican suspicions have been aroused and they mean to try to ferret out any secret agreements that President Roosevelt may have put over in the course of his meetings with the other leaders.

Elliott's book, with its consistent criticism of Churchill and praise of the Russians and Stalin, has whetted those suspicions.

If some Republicans have their way, the carnival of investigation will take in the whole course of American foreign policy with emphasis on secret archives and restricted files.

Elliott, as witness, will be a spectacular exhibit. Senator Owen Brewster of Maine seems to have the fantastic notion that if he promotes enough investigations, he will promote himself into the White House.

"As He Saw It" is a superficial and often a foolish book on the level of cocktail chitchat. But there is no doubt that it reflects the mood of the late president in the last two or three years of his life.

In the last long talk that I had with him, he spent a good deal of time on the evils and the dangers of trying to revive colonialism and imperialism in the postwar world.

He was especially emphatic on the subject of Indo-China and the need to put that colony, so badly administered and so ruthlessly exploited, under an international trusteeship. He spoke in somewhat the same vein of the Netherlands East Indies.

What Elliott's book ignores is the fact that the colonial powers are now recognizing that statehood for native peoples is essential. The Dutch seemed for a time to be trying to reimpose the old colonial system in their rich Far East province.

They have now reached what appears to be a satisfactory solution with the native independence leaders. In India, Moslems and Hindus are struggling toward statehood with the aid of the British.

The Elliott Roosevelt book is, of course, only one shot in what is fast becoming a new battle of the books. The ammunition in this historical-literary warfare is being rolled up on a half dozen fronts.

Before he died, the late Harry L. Hopkins had begun to put together a book dealing with his part in the events leading up to the war and the war itself. That book is being completed, from Hopkins' notes and letters, by Robert Sherwood, the playwright, who was one of President Roosevelt's chief assistants in the speech-writing division. Former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau is bringing out a lengthy digest of his official diaries.

Louis Adamic, in "Dinner at the White House," has told a story of a sharp exchange between the President and Prime Minister Churchill over the issues of war and peace. The Adamic book caused Churchill to sue for libel.

But the real news in the battle of the books is that Churchill, himself, is preparing to unlimber his heavy artillery.

According to latest reports, Churchill has dictated more than 175,000 words on his history of the war. The first volume is tentatively set for publication in April of 1947.

The truth is, of course, that we are much too close to the event to have real perspective. The memoirs and the histories are all—even Churchill's—the raw materials of history. The final judgment can come only from the historian of 50 or 75 years hence who weighs the complete record.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Nov. 28, 1926.

Mrs. M. A. Long, 72, of Mansfield was seriously injured in auto collision near Pleasant View church, north of city.

Frank M. Geer, 67, was fatally injured when struck by automobile on Park avenue east road.

Article told of children's story written by Miss Helen Keating, "How the Gentian Got Its Fringe", being told at Saturday story hour at public library, by Miss Mabel Hancock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Glasener, 283 Park avenue west, were in New York City visiting their son, Ralph.

Corinne Griffith in "Into Her Kingdom", was screen attraction at the Majestic.

Mrs. Lewis J. McCray, former Mansfield resident, died at her home in Ashland.

Sixty-year-old red cedar tree on lawn of Charles Tomlinson home, 79 Sherman avenue, was cut down by vandals.

Silver tray was presented to Miss Mary Haag in recognition of 25 years of service as secretary of St. John's Evangelical Sunday school.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

On November 28, 1912, English woman suffrage agitators initiated the practice of pouring ink and acids into the public mail boxes.

Timely Editorial

Good News for Fond Parents.

Here's more good news for fond parents who may be inclined, out of a sense of duty to their offspring, to follow the spartan regime so popular in recent years with some child care experts. Dr. Milton I. Levine, speaking to a forum on family life in New York City, says the idea that infants shouldn't be fondled too much, picked up when they cry or allowed to eat except by the most rigid of schedules is the bunk. He's convinced that it isn't possible to spoil a child during its first year of life regardless of how much or how little attention it receives.

Love, a sense of being wanted and "a realization by parents that every child is an individual and a little person, but not a little adult" are the basic requisites for a good home, he believes. And a good home, he says, is all that's needed to eliminate frustration from the first year of a child's life."—Columbus Dispatch.

Daily Bible Thought

When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things.—1 Cor. 13:12.

FARM LEADERS ATTEND MEETS

Two meetings in a series on "Agriculture Outlook" were conducted in Wooster Tuesday and Bucyrus yesterday attracting farm representatives from Richland county.

Designed to provide the latest information on agriculture potentialities for the coming year, the meetings feature the appearance of three farming experts in Ohio. They speak on different subjects and those attending the meetings are expected to report back to the farmers operating in their areas.

Attending the Wooster meeting were George B. Ganyard, Richland county extension agent, and Horace Uhl, production credit representative of the Farm Credit administration.

Guy Taylor, Warren Eckstein and Raymond Landis, a committee representing the Richland county Triple-A, attended the Bucyrus meeting.

Speakers for both meetings were Virgil Wertz and Guy Miller, extension economists of the Ohio State university, and Elmer Kruse, state director of the Triple-A.

Wertz and Miller spoke on the general outlook for agriculture and Kruse discussed production goals for 1947.

Engineers Plan Dinner Meeting

Members of the Mansfield section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers are invited to attend a dinner, Dec. 4, sponsored by the North Electric Manufacturing company of Galion.

The dinner, to be held at the Fairway, four miles east of Galion on U. S. Route 30-S, will be followed by a tour of the North company's plant. Time for the dinner has been set for 6.30 p. m. Wednesday.

Garrett-Boulger

CRESTLINE—Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Mrs. Susan Garrett of this city to Robert W. Boulger of Columbus which was solemnized Nov. 9 at the Episcopal church in Worthington. Rev. E. Moffat officiated, using the single ring ceremony. Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Poling of Columbus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Huml, of Crestline street, and is employed in the office of the Ohio Public Service company.

The groom is the son of Mrs. L. J. Garrett of Cleveland, formerly of Crestline. He is employed at the Pennsylvania Railway shops in Columbus. The couple will live at 877 Elaine road in Bexley.

Albert-Gerhart

BUCYRUS – A marriage in Greenup, Ky. announced today, united Miss Betty Albert, daughter of Mrs. Fanny Albert of McCutchinville and Kenneth Jay Gerhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gerhart of Chatfield. The vows were exchanged Saturday in the Methodist parsonage.

Attendants were the bridegroom's sister, Lois Gerhart and the bride's brother, Donald Albert.

The couple will occupy a farm residence north of Bucyrus. Mr. Gerhart is employed at Carrothers.

Bicarbonatesoda and salt mixed with water used once a week on the teeth will clean away any stains the toothpaste misses.

Household Hints

To roast nuts combine nutmeat halves with 2 teaspoons of cooking oil or melted vegetable or table fat and 1 teaspoon of salt in the frying pan. Place over low heat and stir constantly. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with salt.

As many as 2,200 separate areas of metropolitan London were evacuated because of unexploded bombs during the height of the "blitz."

Winchell — On Broadway

POSTMASTER-GENERAL Bob Hannegan, chairman of the Numbocrats, was cornered by a Washington reporter, who noticed the lack of hustle and bustle that preceded Thanksgiving Day. "Aren't the Democrats," he asked "going to celebrate Thanksgiving Day this year?"

"I don't think so," intoned Bob "we are still in mourning."

* * *

Mr. Truman, however, probably will. Only one more Thanksgiving Day to go!

* * *

The other day a policeman spotted a car on the sidewalk outside a 58th St. restaurant.

"Let's see your license," snarled the cop. "You can't park here!"

"Who's parking?" barked the fellow. "I'm picketing."

* * *

Lynne Gilmore claims Truman's alma mater has chosen him as "The Man Most Likely To Be Succeeded."

* * *

A local editor was almost caught short on the sudden death of Jimmy Walker. He bawled out his staff because they didn't have obits ready on some other men.

"Have you an obit," he yipped, "on John L. Lewis?"

"We don't need one," groaned a desk man. "He's writing his own!"

* * *

The coal strike had a happy side after all. The Government took over John L. Lewis' mines.

We thought that John was going to take over the government.

* * *

During one of H. G. Wells' visits to America he informed reporters that every writer should try composing poetry. "It is excellent training for writers," he added.

An interviewer asked: "Why bother writing poetry when so many poets are poor?"

"The reason so many poets are poor," said Welles, "is that there are so many poets!"

* * *

A couple of famous Broadway heels had their heads together.

"This thing's so big," worried the first, "I can't tell anybody—they might repeat it."

"You can trust me," persuaded the other. "You're the only one in town who talks to me!"

* * *

At the Carnival a ring-sider buzzed: "That ham is really in love with himself."

"Must be easy to please," cracked Vic Damone.

* * *

Will Rogers was fond of spinning this quip to illustrate adroit diplomacy: An errand boy at a Hollywood studio entered an elevator and forgot to remove his hat. The only other passenger was a fussy, middle-aged actress, and she asked him: "Don't you take off your hat to ladies?"

The retort diplomatic was: "Only to old ones, ma'am."

* * *

Washington is talking about unifying the Army and Navy when it hasn't even unified the North and South!

* * *

We have filed away Oswald Garrison Villard's definition of a reporter. To wit: "Trained to ask questions, and possessor of that conditioned reflex of all good reporters which makes them assume any smoke is a 3-alarm fire unless proved otherwise."

* * *

Crackpot outfits kindly note: From Nietzsche: "Insanity in individuals is something rare, but in groups, parties, nations and epochs, it is the rule."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK — In demolishing the myth that "labor" made some "contribution" to the winning of the late war, a fallacy repeated the other day by General Eisenhower, we might as well make a saturation job and level down some other monstrosities that disfigure our mental scene..

"Labor," as nobody knows better than those who drew inflationary pay in war industries, "contributed" nothing at all and, on the whole, made a record fitter for shame than pride. There were a few exceptional individuals. it is true, who worked with secret zeal when the narks of the CIO were drunk in the taverns, but even they were overpaid, so in the common sense that a "contribution" is a gift, they "contributed" nothing. Neither did the magnates of industry who, though many of them worked enormously and, to their ironic anguish, made good the late Roosevelt's boast of 50,000 planes a year, after all were slaves of their nature and the circumstances and no more could have restrained themselves than a rock rolling down hill. Even those who worked themselves to death, as some did, would have worked as hard in time of peace under the pressure of strong competition and would have died of the same wear and tear.

It is but another expression of the same soft-soapery to speak of the invaluable contributions of a particular group—but rarely. if ever, native Anglo-Saxon—to science and art and the aggregate greatness of the United States. Albert Einstein, for example whatever it is that he has added to the sum of human knowledge, did what he has done not because of any sense of duty to mankind but because he couldn't help it, and has received beautiful rewards in the coin that he values most—a posturing old fellow, delighting in a show of homely and spectacular modesty.

Does anyone seriously believe that a foreign scientist, painter, musician of any kind, writer or actor consciously and selflessly set out to "contribute" anything to the consummate greatness of the United States or to victory in the war? Selfishness, ambition and self-expression are the only driving forces, except that we may say that during the war there were additional compulsions of hatred, revenge and fear.

On one hand, idolators of the late Roosevelt insist that he took his third and fourth terms only because he loved "the people." But the same authorities tell us that he delighted in his job and his powers, and that he felt great and had not the slightest premonition that he would die in office. He could no more abandon that office and the regal panoply and powers with which he, alone of all the presidents, invested it than he could have assembled a watch behind his back. And to credit him with great courage in living on after his affliction is to argue that the appropriate course in such cases is suicide.

The true heroes of this war, as General Eisenhower should know, were those who faced the enemy in combat and nobody on the so-called "home front" which was no front at all, deserves any share of their laurels. The greatest of these were such as General Theodore Roosevelt, who opposed our course toward war but joined up immediately, took dangerous chances in battle when he needn't have, and died, probably in chagrin, not of enemy action but of exhaustion in battle. We forget and dishonor young Ted and Ernie Pyle, another like him, and thousands of little neighborhood boys, the marines of Guadalcanal and Peleliu, when we credit "labor," and particularly the sordid politicians of the CIO, with any share of the credit and gratitude we owe them.

Single Word, 'Gentlemen,' Still Remains Lewis' Last

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis showed again yesterday that he has become about as gabby as a cigar store Indian.

Lewis again ignored all reporters' questions.

He didn't say he would not talk.

He didn't say that, under the conditions, he couldn't very well comment.

He just plain didn't say anything at all—as if he were completely oblivious of the reporters and their queries.

The last time Lewis said a word to reporters was a week ago today. As he came out of his United Mine Workers' headquarters then, he uttered this one word:

"Gentlemen."

* * *

This stony attitude was preserved in court today. Chin out, eyebrows pulled down, Lewis looked as emotional as Grant's tomb.

Not until recess did Lewis unbend. He smiled once, broadly, at a lawyer's joke.

And he autographed a cartoon of Lewis by B. E. Howards, editor of "The Miner," of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Howards, who drew the sketch during the morning session, said although his paper is not affiliated with the union, he has known Lewis for a long time.

But for him, too, Lewis had no comment.

* * *

Welly Hopkins of Lewis' legal staff used to be a government lawyer.

That's probably why he made a slip in introducing Joseph Padway, who made the principal argument for the miners.

He said Padway would present the argument "for the government." But Padway ignored the slip and went ahead and argued for the miners.

* * *

At one point, Padway said maybe he had advised Lewis wrongly, but here Judge T. Alan Goldsborough interrupted to tell a little story about a defendant who told another judge that he was doing only what his lawyers advised him to do. The judge replied: "The cemeteries are full of people who took their doctor's advice."

The contempt hearing was dramatically interrupted when deputy U. S. marshals led a chunky, gray-haired man into the court room and informed the judge that prospective jurors were complaining that he had "tried to talk to them."

The man protested he had merely entered the room occupied by waiting veniremen to use the lavatory.

He had talked with only one man in the room, he protested, and only to discuss the weather.

Tax Evasion Racket 'Broken Wide Open'

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Treasury agents have "broken wide open a widespread tax evasion racket growing out of the poultry black market in the New York City area," Secretary Snyder reported yesterday.

Collections of additional taxes and fraud penalties for failure to report over-ceiling payments for income taxes have reached $350,000, Snyder said, adding it was expected the total recovery by the government would go to $3.000,000.

AGREEMENT REPORTED

PEIPING — (AP) — Newspapers owned or subsidized by the Chinese government yesterday published reports indicating that China and Russia may have reached an agreement over Dairen. the Russian-occupied free port of southern Manchuria.

WYATT DENIES PLAN TO QUIT OVER HOUSING

Housing Expediter Takes His Trouble Before President.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt, getting nowhere in an administration family row over his ideas, laid his troubles before President Truman yesterday and said later he has no plan to resign.

Wyatt said the president has under consideration his report asking "reaffirmation" of his emergency powers. Some government agencies have failed to comply with some of his directives. Speaking to reporters, he said there would be further conferences.

The housing chief, who was reported by associates ready to quit if Mr. Truman fails to reassert his authority, did not reply when asked what he would do if his program were sidetracked.

"Do you plan to resign?" a reporter asked.

"No sir," Wyatt replied.

Later Amplifies It.

Later, in talking with a reporter, a national housing agency official said Wyatt had believed he was replying "no sir" to a question whether he actually had resigned. Wyatt understood he had made no answer to a question about his future intentions, the official added.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., telegraphed Mr. Truman urging "the green light" for Wyatt's program. Roosevelt is national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

The CIO announced that President Philip Murray and Chairman R. J. Thomas of the CIO housing committee in a telegram also had asked Mr. Truman's backing of the Wyatt program.

Points of Difference.

Wyatt's differences with other agencies over methods of steering national resources into the housing program headed up this way:

1. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has balked at full compliance with Wyatt's proposals for loans to manufacturers of pre-fabricated housing.

2. The War Assets administration questioned Wyatt's right to require it to turn over a $171,000,000 surplus war plant at Chicago to a firm for making housing units. WAA said it already was leased to an automobile maker.

3. Wyatt has opposed a proposal from within the civilian production administration that the steel priorities system be set aside during the coal strike.

Wyatt was pictured by one housing official as believing the issues boiled down to whether housing is to be treated as a true emergency program.

WALKER WINS BY TWO VOTES

Re-election of Desmond Walker as president of Local 17, United Rubber Workers (CIO) by a two-vote margin was announced last night at the completion of the vote tabulation. The election was held Monday and Tuesday.

Walker edged R. A. McCracken by a vote of 570 to 568.

John Gross was re-elected vice president, topping Cecil Green by a vote of 731 to 330, while Roy Waxler was re-elected secretary without opposition and Norman Yarger was retained as treasurer. He also was unopposed.

Gross was elected to the union's international policy committee to serve with President Walker. He received 346 votes to 285 for Waxler, 196 for Yarger, and 160 for Green. Waxler and Yarger will be first and second alternates.

Only two candidates received the necessary 536 votes for election to the executive board although there are seven to be elected. L. L. Linkhart received 619 and H. Underwood 568.

James Marlow, chairman of elections. said there would be a run-off election next Tuesday or Wednesday to choose the other five members. There were 12 candidates.

Other officers chosen were: Raymond Secrist, trustee for one year; George Bell, trustee for two years; Joseph Schopp, guide, and Vernon Peck, sentinel.

Banks Rites Set For Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Ethel Banks. 40, wife of Kenneth O. Banks of East Mansfield, who died unexpectedly late Tuesday at her home, will be held at 3:30 p. m. Friday at the Wappner funeral home.

Rev. Edwin F. Fontaine, pastor of East Mansfield Presbyterian church, will officiate at the services and burial will be in Little Washington cemetery.

Born Aug. 6, 1906 at Little Washington, Mrs. Banks spent her entire life in the Mansfield community. She was a member of the East Mansfield Presbyterian church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Larry D. and James E.; three daughters, Shirley, Jacquelin and Margaret, all at home; one brother, Walter Pritchard of Lucas; and two sisters, Mrs. Joe Thompson and Mrs. Grant Hall, both of Mansfield.

LEGION PLANS BUSY WEEKEND

It will be a gala holiday weekend for members of McVey post, American Legion, and their families.

Fish fries for Legion members and their families, discontinued during the war days, will be resumed Friday, Chairman William Rose said.

"I've got lots of fish, and expect lots of folks out to pitch in and help us eat 'em," Rose said. "These fries are a general get-together in which everyone lends a hand in the preparation. There'll be music and dancing, too."

Assisting Rose are Ralph Johnson, Harry Uplinger and Claude Myers.

There will be music and dancing Saturday nights at the Legion, beginning this week, as the Legion drum corps sponsors a series of Saturday night dances for Legion members and their friends. Leonard Lennon's all-veteran orchestra will play from 9:30 p. m. until 12:30 a. m. Dance Chairman Hollis Moorhead said.

Rites Arranged For Charles Hesselton

Funeral services for Charles Hesselton, 57, well-known Washington township farmer, who died unexpectedly at his home Tuesday, will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home.

Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church of which Mr. Hesselton was a member will conduct the services. Burial will be in Caesarea cemetery.

Agricultural Society To Pick County Fair Board Next Week

Richland county's Agricultural Society will meet in the common pleas courtroom Dec. 7 to elect six new members to its board of directors which makes up the county fair board, Orville Kibler, secretary, announced yesterday.

The board consists of one member representing each of the county's 18 townships and three representing the city of Mansfield.

"After the election of the directors, they will meet on the last Saturday in December to organize the board and elect its officers for the coming year," Kibler said.

A special fairground committee is expected to report Dec. 7 on its recommendations as to use or disposal of the present ground. Members of the committee are Arthur Mellick, chairman, Clair Will and Charles Oberlin.

Last spring and summer considerable discussion as to the fate of the fairground arose after many Richland countians, including some members of the fair board, criticized the run-down condition of the ground.

In response to the criticism, the board appointed its special committee to study the problem. In addition, it conducted a membership drive for the society, parent organization of the board, which netted some 196 members, the most it has ever had.

The hoped-for "new blood" on the board will depend on the voting Dec. 7. Kibler said polls would be open there from 1 to 4 p. m.

BIG 4 DISCARDS SECRECY POLICY

NEW YORK —(AP)— The four-power council of foreign ministers, suddenly shifting strategy, abandoned temporarily yesterday its briefly established policy of secrecy, called in its technical aides and went ahead with a full-fledged debate on Trieste and a peace pact for Italy.

The action came as a surprise move less than 24 hours after Secretary of State James F. Byrnes held a strictly private session with his council colleagues in the hope that elimination of protocol and diplomatic trappings would speed the deliberations.

The new move touched off immediate speculation that substantial progress had been made during Tuesday's combination four-hour lunch and business session in reaching agreement on the Trieste deadlock. The problem has stymied deliberations ever since the diplomatic chiefs of the United States, Britain, Russia, and France got together here in quest of treaties for the axis.

Exams Set For VA Post

An examination for probational (permanent) appointment to the position of vocation adviser was announced yesterday by the executive secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Veterans Administration branch office in Columbus.

Vocational advisers assist in carrying out the program for the rehabilitation of disabled veterans who are eligible for training under Public Law 16, and for training of veterans as provided for by the Serviceman's Readjustment Act.

Places of employment are located in the various administrative areas of the Veterans' Administration branch and regional offices in Cleveland. Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville and Detroit.

Applications in Mansfield can be obtained at the post office. Applications should be filed not later than Dec. 17.

Amvets to Stage Holiday Dance

Mansfield Amvets will hold a Thanksgiving dance Friday night at Grotto hall in one of the post's first social events of the fall and winter season.

William Beckler, entertainment committee chairman, announced that by popular request the committee has lined up Speros Karas and his orchestra to play for the evening's dancing.

COLLEGE GROWING

Up and Down The Street

PLANES 'GROUNDED'—

Mansfielders saw a sort of air show on wheels yesterday. Airplanes and parts of planes displayed at the Cleveland Air show were moved through the city while being trucked back to Wright Field at Dayton. Among the equipment on the lumbering, traffic-stalling trucks, were a Thunderjet plane, a German buzz bomb, and parts of a German Messerschmitt. Other vehicles carried huge wings from bombers and transport planes. They made a parade of interest along South Main street and Lexington avenue road.

GETS HELP—

The problem of covering the Mansfield army recruiting area has been solved for M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo, Mansfield army recruiting station commander, by the arrival of Sgt. Jacob Held, of Cleveland and Pfc. Herbert Wells of Columbus.

Sgt. Held, who served with the 20th Air Force in the Pacific, will now cover the Ashland recruiting "front." Pfc. Wells, holder of the Purple Heart and six battle stars as a result of service in the European theater with the First Armored division, will "campaign" in Mt. Vernon.

PUPILS ISSUE WARNING

Warnings against turning in false fire alarms and preventative practices in places where fires may start are featured this week on the editorial page of the "Newman Flashes," published twice a semester by the pupils of Newman school. Also included in the 25-page volume are suggestions of safety on the playground, courtesy practices for the auditorium during movies, activities in all six grades represented, and general news around the school. The paper is headed by Barbara Janes as editor-in-chief, and edited by the sixth grade pupils of room 14.

BLOCKS ROAD, GETS $25 FINE

Six persons were fined a total of $65 and costs yesterday in traffic court, among them a motorist fined on a charge of blocking a highway.

Fined $25 and costs on a charge of obstructing free passage of a highway was Floyd J. Huegle, of Creston, while Carl F. Greathouse of Lakeville, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of crossing a yellow line.

Fined $10 and costs each on speeding charges were Charles F. Snyder, Mansfield, R. D. 3; Leslie W. Tucker, 202 South Main street, and Robert F. Burger, Mansfield, R. D. 6.

Daniel Stehle, jr., 127 Gibson avenue, who pleaded innocent to a speeding charge was fined $10 and costs but the fine was suspended and he was ordered to pay $7.60 in court costs.

William C. Sheldon, of Lima, booked on a speeding charge, was to appear in court yesterday, too, but court attaches said his case was heard earlier in the week. He was fined $10 and costs.

SHERIFF PROBES TWO BURGLARIES

MT. GILEAD — Sheriff Tom England yesterday was investigating burglaries at the offices of the Morrow County Farm Bureau and Wagner Feed Store offices Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Burglars pried a side door open at the Farm Bureau headquarters, knocked the safe door off and took $128 in cash and some checks. At the feed store they got about $20 in cash, officers said. It's believed entrance there was gained through the front door. The store safe also was broken open.

The Farm Bureau checks were found scattered near the store and the Wagner company money bag was picked up on state highway property not far from the scene of the burglary.

Five Cubs Move Up In Scouting

Five members of Mansfield's Cub Pack No. 3 were presented with advancement awards yesterday by Cubmaster O. H. Sprang at the pack's monthly meeting at Prospect park pavilion. They included Robert Frieg, Ronald Bradley, Jack McBride. Dean Wells and Robert Stockwell.

COUNCIL GROUP REPORTED SET FOR MEETING

Committee Ready to Confer With Industrial Spokesmen On Sewer Program.

The first action by city council to make Mansfield flood-proof is expected to be taken next week when councilmen confer with officials of two major industries.

Jointly they'll be studying a project designed to provide speedy run-off of heavy rain waters and to protect potential flood areas. Twice this year flood waters caused heavy damage in industrial and residential areas.

The project, proposed by the Tappan Stove company and the Westinghouse Electric corporation, includes three major recommendations:

1. Construction of a 42-inch, heavy-duty sewer from Orange-Hoffer streets to the Rocky Fork creek to quickly remove bottlenecked water.

2. Elevation and paving of Eclipse street and construction of a curb on that street from Wayne street east to prevent flooding from the Rocky Fork.

3. Construction of various bunkers and drainage systems on the properties of the two companies to further prevent water from reaching furnaces.

Councilman Clifford Knarr, chairman of council's sewer committee, said that his three-man group expects to meet with officials of the two companies this week.

* * *

Work With City.

The companies, in recommending the plan, sought to aid the city in formulating a program to assure that water does not reach their enameling furnaces during heavy rains.

Water-struck furnaces could explode. Such blasts were threatened during the flood in June. The explosions and the damage they would cause, plus the resulting lay-offs, would be a severe economic loss to the city, the companies point out.

A detailed report by engineers employed by the two companies has already been submitted to council. but Knarr said his committee wants to go over it with the companies and make an on-the-spot study of the recommendations.

The report was drawn by Floyd G. Brown and associates, consulting engineers at Marion. It is based on a study of the city's June 12th flood during which some four and one-half inches of rain fell in a 90-minute period.

The city's share of the costs of the control project would be about $37,000, the engineers report states, with the two companies paying for improvements on their immediate properties.

The city's share would pay for costs of the heavy-duty sewer and the paving and curbing job on Eclipse street, according to the engineers' estimate.

* * *

Sewers Inadequate.

The report stated that engineers found several sewers of inadequate capacity in a 27-acre area of the flood section.

They said one of the principal bottlenecks is a sewer from Eclipse street to the Rocky Fork which prevents water from getting away fast enough in the Orange-Hoffer streets area during heavy rains.

Other bottlenecks are a sewer from Orange street to the creek and the Rocky Fork's water-way which is too small to handle flash floods, the report states.

Police Brand Story As False

Police yesterday termed as false a report made to them by Mrs. Hazel Wilcox, 15½ East Fifth street, who said she was slugged on East Fifth street by an unidentified man and robbed of $14.

Officers said Mrs. Wilcox refused to file charges against the man. She originally reported that the man attacked her Tuesday and then fled in a car with a companion.

The men, one 24 years old, of Painesville, the other, 25, of Cleveland, were released when they returned $14 to Mrs. Wilcox and paid for a purse which is missing.

Candy Counter Opened By A & P

A new candy counter has been installed at the A and P supermarket on Bowman street, Charles Tither, store manager, announced Wednesday.

He said the glass-inclosed counter is designed to display to advantage the company's new line of chocolates, and will show both opened and wrapped box chocolates and other candies.

Miss Jean Anderson will be in charge of the new department, assisted by Miss Rose DeYarmon, Tither said.

BISHOP FLAYS ADVOCATES OF 'FALSE MORALS'

Message Raps Puritanical Outlook On Gambling.

STEUBENVILLE — (AP) — A Catholic bishop believes gambling and drinking, in themselves, are not sinful or evil and emphasized that he would "not tolerate any attempt by anyone to legislate false morals" for his parishioners.

In a pastoral letter yesterday that made no mention of an anti-vice crusade here by 12 Protestant pastors, Bishop John King Mussio, spiritual leader of 150,000 Catholics in the 13-county Steubenville diocese, observed:

"Unfortunately there are many misguided, puritanical and narrow minded persons to whom a game of chance is a serious crime; to whom it is a violation of the whole moral code. . . .

"These so-called leaders simply do not know the moral structure of Christianity. As a result, they make themselves pitiable objects in a community."

The letter, to be read Sunday in all Catholic churches of the diocese, was prepared to instruct parishioners on the issues of gambling, drinking and prostitution.

Crusade Hits Vice.

The crusade begun by Protestant ministers is directed against organized vice and crime, including prostitution in this Ohio river city once famed for its red light district. It was prompted, in part, by the slaying last October of a bystander in a gambling establishment. The ministers asked special police powers permitting them to smash such establishments with sledge hammers.

The Bishop's letter asserted "gambling, considered in itself, is not wrong or sinful," and that "apart from abuse, to play games of skill or even of pure chance for a stake is not immoral.

"We do believe that when this game of chance works an injustice to individuals, families, groups or the common good, it is morally wrong.

"Drinking in itself is not evil. It becomes wrong when used immoderately with its long stream of evil consequences.

"Adultery and fornication are intrinsically evil. They can never be tolerated, nor can places which are the occasion for such sin be allowed to exist."

In connection with gambling, the letter referred to bingo games such as those conducted weekly by the bishop's seat, the Holy Name of Jesus cathedral, saying:

"Fathers, mothers, middle-aged and elderly women who get relaxation once a week at some church bingo, their neighbors of every creed, normal and of good common sense, must be subjected to the intolerable abuse raised up by the charges of local fanatics who would make them criminals in law and in moral character."

The bishop pledged himself "to forestall to the best of my ability any attempt to put into law what is unreasonable, discriminatory and based upon a puritanical attitude toward pleasurable occupations.

Letter Made Public.

The letter was made public after city council, without discussion, gave a second reading to legislation which would permit the appointment of special policemen to conduct a campaign against vice and crime. The measure will be given a third and final reading Dec. 10 If approved at that time it will become effective after 30 days.

Earlier, the Jefferson county trades and labor assembly, a body representing 25 AFL affiliates, adopted a resolution opposing the legislation on the grounds it might have "serious consequences in the future."

The Steubenville Kiwanis club, which has as members three of the ministers identified with the crusade, made its stand known in a communication to city council which said the club "hesitated to endorse private policemen."

This action should be taken only if it becomes evident that ordinary procedures of law enforcement have broken down completely," said the statement, which was not signed by minister-members seeking the cleanup. . . . We believe police authorities as now constituted can remove from our city all organized vice and gambling, and at the same time eliminate all possibilities of graft arising therefrom."

Christmas cards should be addressed to the home address rather than to a business address.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Nov. 29.

The astral testimonies are for a difficult, hazardous and strange course of events, possibly instigated by rash, peculiar or erratic emotions or impulses. It is advisable to adhere strictly to the proper safe and sane paths of conduct, with common sense and reason in all activities, personal as well as business and financial Sudden urges to irregularity and brash adventure might exact heavy loss and penalties. Surprising benefits might come from rigid grasp on rash or wild impulses. Take no reckless chances in any relation.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of strange or exciting events, with much hazard and possible sensational adventure. With exceptional grip on the emotions and impulses a beneficial outcome might arise from a curious or irregular twist or idea. But all such ventures should be based on fact and firm plan of good sense and judgment. Flighty moves or fancies are perilous.

A child born on this day should be given early training and discipline with an idea to keeping a level head under strange circumstances or adventures.

Thief Makes Things Easy For Himself

BOSTON — (AP) — A thief who had trouble making up his mind got away with $125.

The manager of a chain restaurant received this telephone call order, purportedly from her boss: "I expect a robbery. Take the money and put it in a flower barrel in the basement.

A few minutes later, another call, and the same voice: "I've changed my mind. Put that money in a tin can at the rear door."

She followed instructions, but checked later and found the money gone from the can.

Americans Accepted Thanksgiving Custom Slowly, Despite Success of Pilgrim Feast

By ROBERT RICHARDS

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Americans didn't accept the idea of Thanksgiving in one easy lesson despite the history books.

It's a custom that was considered and developed down through the years.

They held the first feast at Plymouth Colony in 1621. They did it again in 1623. Then the Pilgrims' called the whole thing off for 45 years, and didn't have another Thanksgiving day at Plymouth until 1668.

First Was Success.

That first one was a success, though. The harvest was in, winter was near, and the Colonists were confident of their future.

Gov. William Bradford was a generous man and he invited 90 Indians, including a chief named Massasoit, to the white man's party.

They had to be fed, and plenty, so he sent out "foure men on fowling so we might, after a more special manner rejoice."

And the hunters, in a single day, "killed as much fowle, as with a little help beside, served the company almost a week."

The fowl, of course, was mostly turkey—the governor had a right to be thankful. At a chainstore today, it would cost him 57 cents a pound.

The Indians were no dummies. They went outside and knocked off five "deere." That meant venison steaks.

Ate for 3 Days.

There were 140 people present, and they ate for three days.

They ate turkey, venison, oysters, ducks, geese, partridges, squash, pumpkins, beans, peas, Indian barley loaf, and washed it all down with a little "comfortable warm water"—apparently another name for 17th Century homebrew.

One historian said: "Possibly there was more carousing than we supposed, while there is not the slightest indication of any religious observance."

At present day prices, Bradford would have been forced to hit the trail home to England. Five seconds after the Indians started eating, he would have been stoney-broke.

The Massachusetts Bay colony took up the Thanksgiving ideae in 1630, but folks up there waited until 1680 before making it an annual affair.

Connecticut started off in 1639 and held the feast each year after 1647. They skipped 1675, but no one knows just why.

Old Dutch manuscripts show that in 1644 the New Yorkers marched up to Greenwich, Conn., where they shot or burned alive 500 to 600 Indians, including women and children. Then they all sat down to a hearty Thanksgiving meal.

By 1858, the idea was getting permanent. Governors of 25 states and two territories proclaimed the holiday.

Abraham Lincoln was the first president to make it official. In 1864, he called for turkey on the last Thursday in November.

The other presidents have followed suit.

NO LIMIT ON VET SALARIES

Mansfield area veterans were advised yesterday that the $175-$200 income ceiling for veterans taking education or training under the provisions of the G.I. Bill affects only subsistence allowances and doesn't limit the actual wages or salaries which they may receive.

George B. Brown, jr., director of Vocational Rehabilitation and Education for the Veterans' Administration branch office in Columbus, explaned that although the law provides that no subsistence shall be paid beyond the point where wages and subsistence together total $175 monthly for veterans without dependents, or $200 for veterans with dependents, there is no limit on the wages or salaries which may be paid.

In cases where the wages and subsistence combined exceed the limitations, the subsistence payments are reduced accordingly to keep within the ceilings. If wages exceed the limitations to the extent that no subsistence can be paid, veterans may still continue their education or training under the G.I. Bill although their enrollment will be charged against their eligibility.

Although they may receive no subsistence, if they elect to use their period of eligibility they are entitled to certain tools and books necessary to their training and they will also have the benefit of VA supervision of their training, Brown said.

VETS GET CHECKS

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Thanksgiving checks totaling more than $50,000 have been distributed among 490 veterans in the Industrial Rayon Corp. The checks, given only to workers employed by the concern before they entered service, varied according to the length of time spent in the armed forces.

ANDERSON ASKS PROMPT STUDY OF FARM PRICES

'Obviously Imperative,' He Tells Legislators.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told leaders of the senate and house agriculture committee yesterday it is "obviously imperative" that the whole question of policy on supporting farm prices be given "prompt and thorough" consideration.

In letters to the chairman and ranking minority members of the two committees, Anderson said:

"The basic relationship between our agricultural price support commitments and production levels for the various crops involved is one of the most fundamental questions before us at this time."

Pointing out that farmers have been promised price support at not less than 90 per cent of parity on many important agricultural commodities for two years after a declaration of the end of hostilities, Anderson continued:

"While this congressional provision is very sound, giving farmers deserved protection during the transition from war-time to peace-time operations, it is obvious that under certain conditions, and for certain commodities, this support can serve to prevent the development of production patterns in line with peace-time needs."

Thanksgiving Union Service Held in Iberia

IBERIA — With the strains of the familiar music, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," the Iberia Community observed Thanksgiving according to the early American tradition by a union service at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. Willis Crafts and Rev. Charles Edgar, Wednesday evening.

* * *

A band-choral Thanksgiving program was held by the Washington-Bloomfield school Tuesday evening.

* * *

At the Iberia FFA initiation ceremony in the Iberia school, those receiving the greenhand degree were Gerald Miley, Dale Miller, Francis Parr, Edgar Robinson, Dean Warner, Joe Wilcox, and Bill Thompson.

A special conservation program was presented to the school recently when Donald See presided at chapel services. A picture "The Tops For Forty Years" concerning marksmanship was shown. Bill Thompson read the Scriptures; Beverly Worster discussed trapping laws; John See reviewed hunting regulations.

* * *

Supt. Earl E. Bowman has announced basketball games for Nov. 26 at Johnsville where Iberia meets a quintet coached by Preston Burggraf, former Iberia star, and Tuesday December 3 when Martel visits the Iberia gymnasium for two games.

A Christmas program is cheduled for December 12.

BLAMES 'TAMPERING'

PEORIA, Ill. —(INS)— Officials of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad promised today a "thorough investigation" of the derailment of the locomotive, tender and caboose of a small work train near Secor Trainmen said Tuesday's wreck was caused by tampering with the track. A rail was sprung several inches out of line.

Out-Going OES Worthy Matron Honored by Galion's Chapter

GALION—A ceremony honoring the out-going worthy matron, Mrs. Chester Burress, and the initiation of five candidates, were features of the regular meeting of Naomi chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

All officers of the chapter took part in the service honoring Mrs. Burress.

A song to the worthy matron was sung by a trio composed of Miss Virginia Rensch, Mrs. Franklin Decker and Mrs. Chester Zimmerman, and another selection to the worthy patron, Charles Klossner, sung by Elwood Christman. At the close of the service gifts were presented to both Mrs. Burress and Mr. Klossner by the five star points.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Edward H. Yunker.

* * *

A special service was held Tuesday evening by the Woman's Relief Corps at the Galion armory when several members of the Germaine Nelling Junior club were accepted as members of the corps. Mrs. Carl Coover presided for the meeting, and general orders were read by Mrs. Jennie Gleeson. Fruit was assembled for Thanksgiving for the members of the corps who are ill. At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by a committee of which Mrs. Louis Metzger was chairman.

* * *

New officers elected this week by the Lutheran Daughters at Peace Lutheran parish house are: president, Mrs. Fred Honness; vice president, Mrs. Carl Harriger; secretary, Mrs. Henry Case; treasurer, Alice Plack; reporter, Mrs. Wallace Seckel.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
A Lesson In Conservation
We were sitting on Bill Webster's porch the other night, chatting over a glass of beer—when the talk turns to forest preservation, soil erosion, and other things that affect a farming community.
Judge Cunningham speaks up: "It's alright to worry about conserving our natural resources," he says, "but there's a far bigger problem when it comes to conservation—and that's preserving our democratic way of life, our sense of personal freedom, our respect for one another's rights."
From where I sit, the Judge is right. All America's great resources, our abundant natural wealth, are lost the minute we lose the right to work them as free people in a free land!
Whenever you see or hear of an encroachment on our rights—whether it's the right to free speech, or the right to vote as we see fit, or the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in licensed, law-abiding places . . . watch out!

Two Major Football Titles Up For Consideration Today

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

ALL-OHIO selectors really missed the boat when they left hard-hitting Ralph Majors off one of the first three INS honor teams. . . . The Tyger senior was the whole show several times at Stadium field this past season and compiled a ground-eating record that few if any Ohio schoolboy backs could amass. . . . He picked up 1,329 yards by running, passing and pass receiving which is just 82 less than all 10 Tyger opponents gained. . . . In addition he was a bearcat on defense. . . . Ken Horvath, Tyger fullback, would have been higher in the selections had he not suffered a broken leg in mid-season. . . . Bob Rondy was surely a popular choice at that second club guard post. . . . In all, 104 players representing 63 schools were placed on the three teams and honorable mention list . . . Mansfield placed five men Ollie Cline and Dave Boals getting honorable mention in addition to laurels heaped on Rondy, Horvath and Majors. . . . Only two teams in Ohio duplicated the feat, Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Lima Central. They were ranked second and third in Ohio. . . . Toledo Waite, state champs, placed only three players. . . . Massillon did not come up with a man on the first three elevens.

MAJORS

* * *

FULLBACK Bill Gregus, Waite, was accorded a spot on the Tyger all-opponent team as well as getting the top blaster post on the All-Ohio. . . . However, All-Ohio Elmer Scallish of the Indians was rated No. 3 tackle on the Bengal foe team . . .

Others picked by the Tygers were: Zeller, Massillon, and Cooper, Cleveland East, ends; Young, Massillon, and Molster, Portsmouth, tackles; Green, Portsmouth, and Kowalka, Waite, guards; Darrah, Massillon, center; Brown, Massillon; Goettling, Cleveland East, and Neago, Canton Timken, backs. . . . Zeller, Green, and Darrah were given All-Ohio honorable mention.

* * *

SERAPH POPE, Bucyrus native, was selected coach of the year on the INS poll. . . . He piloted Lima Central to its first unbeaten season in history. . . . Pope is credited with helping to develop Lou Groza of the Cleveland Browns as a place kicking star while serving as backfield coach at Martins Ferry.

THANKSGIVING GRIDIRON FARE LACKS FLAVOR

Games Decide Ivy Lop, Big Six Championships.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Although Thanksgiving day isn't what it once was either in the culinary or football departments, two major gridiron titles come up for decision today in the handful of traditionally important holiday games

In the East, Cornell, plying its final game under Smiling Ed McKeever's coaching, shoots for the undisputed and officially unrecognized Ivy league crown against Pennsylvania and in the Midwest, Missouri and Kansas go in there swinging for a share of the Big Six championship.

Cornell, tied by Yale but unbeaten in the Ivy group, can claim the title if it can whip its old and respected rival Penn, considered as the most powerful team in the league before it ran afoul of Princeton, can't get anything better than a second-place tie.

A Penn victory would move once-beaten, once-tied Yale to the top and drop Cornell a notch behind Harvard and Penn which would finish with three victories and one defeat each in Ivy competition.

Missouri and Kansas, also traditionally keen rivals, are tied for second place in the Big Six, each with three wins and one loss. The victor will move up even with Oklahoma, which lost one out of five conference games and which winds up Saturday in a non-conference tussle against Oklahoma A. and M.

Arkansas, assured of at least a tie for the Southwest conference title and already chosen for the Cotton Bowl, concludes its regular season against Tulsa, winner of the Missouri Valley conference title and a candidate for one of the other bowl games.

Texas, pre-season favorite in the Southwest loop, and Texas A. and M. meet to settle third-place tie.

Most of the other action today is concentrated in the South and the Rocky Mountain area. William and Mary, second to North Carolina in the Southern conference, takes on a troublesome Richmond team, South Carolina, which still has an outside chance to finish second, meets Wake Forest; Virginia Military academy and Virginia Tech come together in a contest important only to them.

The Thanksgiving games also mark the end of two famous coaching regimes, that of Andy Kerr of Colgate and of Dana X. Bible at Texas. Both have announced their retirement from active coaching

Galion Vet Cubs Battle Bombers

GALION—Bernie Jefferson and his star-studded Chicago Brown-Bombers invade Heise park today to play the Galion Vet Cubs, at 2:30.

The Vet Cubs were tied by Chicago 7 to 7, earlier this season at Red Bird stadium in Columbus.

Chuck Bowen, Brown Bomber center, received his college gridiron experience at Wilberforce university, Xenia.

County Basketball

Ontario defeated Bellville, 31 to 28, and Lucas edged Union, 34-27 in the only two Richland county basketball league games last night.

MIAMI QUEEN — Mary Brice, University of Miami coed, will reign over the annual Orange Bowl festivities January 1, 1947 in Miami's Burdine stadium. Tennessee will be one of the competing teams.

CITY A COURT LOOP DIVIDED

Teams in the City A basketball league have been divided into two divisions in preparation for the 1946-47 schedule which opens Monday at the Senior high school gymnasium at 7 p m.

Ohio Sports Center, Smokehouse, Komitos Clothing, Richland Beverage, Legion Post 72 and Westinghouse form the No. 1 division, while the No. 2 division is comprised of Yunckers Sports, AVC, Urschel Insurance, Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, McCarrick's Gulf station, and Barnes Manufacturing company.

Legion Post 72 and Mansfield Tire play the opening game Monday with Smokehouse and McCarrick's Gulf station meeting in the second contest. Westinghouse collides with AVC in the nightcap.

Wednesday night, Richland Beverage and Barnes Manufacturing lead off followed by Yunckers-Urschel Insurance and Komitos-Sports Center.

Joe Lesch, league president announced that the adult tickets will be 50 cents and students will get in for 25 cents.

The 12-man eligibility rosters must be in next Monday and Lesch added that after six games have been played the teams can not add to their lists.

Team managers are: Sports Center, Jim Augustine; Smokehouse, Clarence Herrick; Komitos, Dr. Harold Hayfer; Richland Beverage, Wilbur Wade, Legion Post 72, Gene Brandon, Westinghouse, Howard Poole

Yunckers, Jim Breres; AVC, Jim McCartney; Urschel, Tony Fenner; Mansfield Tire, Fred Schnerer; McCarrick's, Jim LeMunyon, and Barnes, Tony Branich.

Bill Sawyer and Charlie Saprano have been signed to officiate the games.

BABE RUTH IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK —(AP)— George Herman (Babe) Ruth, baseball's former home run king, is responding satisfactorily to penicillin treatment for a sinus infection which caused severe headaches his physician said yesterday. The 52-year-old Ruth was admitted earlier in the day.

DRAKE COACH QUITS

DES MOINES — (AP) — V. J (Vee) Green, 46, yesterday resigned as head football coach at Drake university. He had coached the Bulldogs 14 seasons.

Paul Carbetta, Alexander Run Up Early KO's

By BRUCE M'GINTY

Knockout was the password at the Armory last night as all five bouts on the first annual VFW Christmas charity show ended in short order.

Paul Carbetta and Dick Alexander, Mansfield favorites, added to their impressive professional ring records as nearly 2,000 fans roared their approval. A portion of the proceeds of the boxing program goes to the VFW Children's Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Carbetta annexed his 20th victory in 23 goes by eliminating Paul Chaney, Delaware, in the third canto. Oomph Paul kept on top of the Delaware feather and put him on the floor in the second round with a right hook.

Another right to the jaw in 1:32 of the second round finished Chaney.

Alexander had little trouble taking his eighth straight pro battle. The Mansfield welter continues to look better each time out, and his expected tough test with Lefty Lou Williams, Dayton, proved a dud.

Williams carried quite a kayo record into the ring, but Alexander had too much of everything for the Gem City southpaw. Williams was saved by the bell in the first heat. The clincher came in 1:51 of the second round when Dick landed a stiff left uppercut

Joe Brown wasted little time in running up his third straight knockout decision. The Mansfield light-heavy, who likes to go against the big boys because they are easy to hit, cooled Joe Ceryak, Cleveland heavy, in 1:58 of the second round.

It was a slugging match all the way with Brown wielding the more potent punches.

Johnny Bryant, Massillon welter, kept up the kayo motif by putting Don Neal, Columbus, away in 1:19 seconds of the opening canto. Neal subbed for Woody Lowden of Columbus but had little chance against the smooth working Bryant. Brany had Neal on the canvas for a nine count before ending the match with a right hook

In the four-rounder, Gale Frye, Mansfield lightweight, made his local debut a success by knocking out Johnny Ross, Massillon, in the fourth heat. Frye had Ross down for a nine-count in the second round.

Paperweights Crackerjack Tibbs and Deadpan Sammy Adams really stole the show in the opener. They had been scheduled to go three rounds but their exhibition was so well-received that the 121 year-old Columbus lads went an extra round.

Cliff Olsen Battles Cretoria At Armory

Cliff Olsen, Duluth, Minnesota grappler, tangles with John Cretoria, Canton, on tonight's wrestling card at the Armory. Promoter Earl Myers has tagged the card as "Galion Night."

In the preliminary match, ex-Ohio State, World War II veteran, George Strickland grapples Sailor Bobby Blake, Cincinnati, at 8:15.

Olsen and Cretoria are newcomers in the Mansfield wrestling circles while Strickland is a local favorite.

Both matches are 60 minute, two-out-of-three fall affairs.

CARROLL C. WIDDOES

BUCKEYE COACH SPEAKS AT FETE

Carroll C. Widdoes, assistant football mentor at Ohio State, will be the guest speaker at the Mansfield-Madison football banquet Saturday night, December 7, at the Rams' gymnasium.

Widdoes was head coach of the Bucks in 1944 and '45 and this year voluntarily stepped down to the assistant's job when Paul Bixler took over. Widdoes was named college coach of the year in '44 when the Bucks rolled to nine straight victories. His 1945 combine copped seven and dropped two.

A graduate of Otterbein college, class of 1926, Widdoes headed athletics in Longfellow junior high in Massillon until 1933. He then joined Paul Brown's staff at Massillon Washington and remained there until he followed Brown to Ohio State in '41. Widdoes coached the Buck blocking backs and fullbacks before assuming the head coaching spot when Brown went into the Navy.

The banquet is being sponsored by the Madison booster club which has called a special meeting for Friday at 7 p m. at the home of Curt Glenn, Lincoln Heights, to complete plans for the fete.

Coach Jeff DeHaven will award letters to the 1946 Ram varsity and announce the 1947 football captain at the testimonial dinner. The Madison gridders romped to seven victories and two defeats and finished in second place in the Northeastern Buckeye league.

Only losses were at the hands of Oberlin, 13-12, and Orrville, 12-0, in a league encounter.

Tygers Ragged In Scrimmage With Galion 5

Practice session between Mansfield Senior high and Galion yesterday afternoon brought to light several Tyger weaknesses although the Bengal basketeers had things pretty much their own way against the taller visitors.

Coach Vern Hoffman was well pleased with the scrappiness and all around play of the varsity squadmen but the Tygers showed raggedness in their ball handling. The Bengals will get a lot of work on passing and fundamentals before their seasonal opener with Wapakoneta on the Senior high court, Dec. 6.

Mansfield also had a tough scrimmage session against an alumni five Tuesday afternoon and Hoffman called off drills until next Monday.

The Tygers make their first public showing Tuesday night at the fourth annual basketball clinic at Senior high. Coach Paul Horneman of Heidelberg will be the principal speaker and the Tyger basketballers will meet an alumni quintet in a regulation contest.

India On Brink of 'Hideous Civil War,' Fears British Duke

HINDU-MOSLEM FEUD WEAKENS FREEDOM PLAN

English Race Against Time to Break Deadlock.

LONDON — (AP) — The grim warning that India stood on the brink of a "most hideous civil war" was sounded Wednesday as the British government began a 14-day race against time to break the Hindu-Moslem deadlock over the subcontinent's independence program.

The British government's entire plan for Indian independence was disclosed to be at stake in the eleventh hour summons to Lord Wavell, the viceroy, and to Indian party leaders to London for a discussion. An authoritative informant said if the deadlock continued it was probable the entire plan would have to be scrapped.

Soon after an official source said Britain's call to the viceroy and Indian leaders was a bid to avert "civil war," the Duke of Devonshire, former undersecretary of state for India, told a conservative party gathering that the four-months rioting in India was "the beginning of one of the most hideous civil wars in all history."

India's "D-day" is Dec. 9, when the constituent assembly, provided in the British plan, is scheduled to meet. The Moslem league, which first accepted then rejected the plan because it feared it threatened its dream of an independent Moslem state called Pakistan, brought about the present crisis by refusing to participate in the constitution-writing convention.

Already, however, the British government's efforts to eliminate all difficulties appeared partially defeated.

Only Moslem League President Mahomed Ali Jinnah and the League Secretary Liaquat Ali Khan will accompany Lord Wavell when he leaves New Delhi for London Saturday, New Delhi dispatches said.

The India office in London confirmed New Delhi dispatches which said the Congress party leaders and Sikh representatives had formally declined the London invitation because they feared new negotiations might result in concessions to the Moslems.

New Delhi dispatches said the Congress party, which leads the new interim government, would never participate in new negotiations, and that a mass resignation of Congress ministers would follow any concessions made to Jinnah.

Any postponement of the convening of the constituent assembly would be regarded by the Congress party as such a concession, the dispatches added.

Commenting on these dispatches an India office spokesman said Britain, in issuing the invitation, did not plan to initiate any new negotiations.

"We consider the cabinet mission's plan is at stake in the present deadlock," the spokesman said. "All we hope to do is to save the plan by examining, discussing and, possibly removing those obstacles standing in the way of the Moslem league's participation in the vital Dec. 9 meeting of the constituent assembly."

The British cabinet will meet again tomorrow to consider the Indian situation.
